25 MEET DEATH IN BOILER EXPLOSION

Frightful Disaster When Locomotive Boiler Lets Go in Railroad Yards at San Antonio.

TAKE MANGLED BODIES FROM WRECKAGE

San Antonio, March 18.—Twenty-five men are known to have been killed, many more injured and several buildings wrecked today when the boiler of a locomotive exploded in the local yards of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Nineteen bodies had been recovered from the wreckage within two hours after the explosion and more were being removed, while nearby stores and buildings were filled with the injured. The round house and copper shops were practically demolished and men working in them were hurt by falling walls.

The army hospital corps here was rushed to the yards and police ambulances and U. M. C. A. workers were organized into rescue bands to dig out the dead and try to save the lives of the wounded. So mangled were some of the victims that there seemed no hope of piecing the fragments of their bodies together sufficiently to identify them.

Victims Were Strike-Breakers.

The victims seemed to be largely men who had been employed as strike breakers.

Strike breakers have been working at the Southern Pacific shops here ever since the shopmen's strike several months ago.

After the explosion rumors in the down town section of San Antonio were that dynamite was the cause but investigation at the yards showed no indication that such rumors had started there. San Antonio has been practically free from violence during the strike.

The locomotive was standing in the yards near the shops and the explosion came without warning. Parts of the round house collapsed and several buildings in the shop enclosure were wrecked, including part of the machine shops. Engines in the round house were smashed as if hit with huge mallets. The round house caught fire. The half ton jacket of the exploded locomotive boiler dropped between two houses on Duval street, several blocks distant, while the tender was catapulted several hundred feet and twisted into a big shapeless chunk of steel.

A majority of the men who were killed were from northern and western states, and much difficulty is being experienced in identifying the bodies.

FORCES CLOSING IN ON OUTLAWS TAKES CHARGE OF PUBLICITY WORK

Two Big Poses Surrounding Hiding Place of Allen Clan.

Harry M. Williams With New Business Government Movement.

PLANS A CAMPAIGN

Hillsville, Va., March 18.—The authorities of two states today are surrounding the region in which the Allen clan are supposed to be hiding. A large posse composed of North Carolina sheriffs and deputies, together with several detectives, are closing in from the North Carolina mountains, while another large force is pushing its way from Hillsville southward.

Definite developments are not expected before Tuesday night. Captain Davant, of the state militia in charge of the guard, received word at 1 o'clock that the posses in the mountains had passed Devil's Den, where the Allens were supposed to be hiding, but saw no trace of the outlaws. The posses at this time, however, had not attempted to explore any of the caves.

Eight picked men remained on the mountain side all night guarding the approaches to Devil's Den, the inaccessible natural stronghold in which the fugitive outlaws are believed to be hiding, prepared to make a last stand. Early today the detachment was joined by the entire posse of 75 detectives and citizen volunteers who had rested overnight in Hillsville after an exhausting day yesterday. Every effort is being made to run down Sidney Edwards, a nephew of the older Allens, who with a wounded foot is supposed to be along in the mountains trying to join his relatives. When he is taken the officers believe they can learn from him with certainty the whereabouts of the rest of the gang.

If it is true that the outlaws are entrenched in Devil's Den, well supplied with ammunition and provisions, it would mean certain death to anyone who attempted to openly reach the place. Plans probably will be laid for a systematic siege. It has been suggested that dynamite be used to clean out the citadel.

While the detectives are preparing to starve out the fugitives by cutting off their food supply from surrounding districts Hillsville itself is not receiving any too much food. Farmers fearing that the town is still in disorder, are slow about bringing their wares to market.

George Bittler, of Indianapolis, and Herman Bittler, of Detroit, are in the city at the home of their father, who is critically ill.

ENTIRE FAMILY WIPED OUT IN ONLY A FEW WEEKS.

With the death of Mildred Louise Ward at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, a twin whose brother died a few weeks ago, the entire family of this Ward, colored, 1313 Lafayette street, has been wiped out of existence. The first death occurred February 24 and two days later the mother passed away. The infant, whose death occurred today, was 26 days of age, and will be placed in the casket in its mother's arms.

Final hearings on petitions for discharge in bankruptcy for F. C. Zinn, of Elkhart and Willard C. Baker, of Bluffton, will come before Judge Anderson at Indianapolis on April 30. The cases were heard in the local federal courts a few weeks ago. Mr. Baker, of Bluffton, was a member of the firm of Baker and Studebaker, cattle buyers.

IN THE YEARS TO COME

PRESIDENT MAKES REPLY TO ROOSEVELT CHALLENGE

Taft Declares for Preferential Primaries Properly Safeguarded, and Says People Already Rule.

Boston, Mass., March 18.—President Taft today declared himself in favor of preferential primaries surrounded by certain conditions for the coming campaign.

"Wherever full and fair notice of the election can be given, wherever adequate election safeguards can be thrown around to protect a preferential primary for the presidency, wherever the constitution of the state permits its being made applicable to the present election, I favor it, and welcome it."

This was the president's statement today before the general court of Massachusetts. It was his first personal reply to the challenge to preferential primaries issued some time ago by Senator Dixon, Colonel Roosevelt's manager. President Taft did not refer to the challenge, however.

Will Keep Him Busy.

President Taft began his two days' visit to New England here today with an engagement list that promised to keep him busy until after midnight. The president's train reached Boston at 7 a. m. A number of city officials, together with representatives of those organizations before which the president was expected to appear during the day, greeted him as he stepped from the train. Automobiles were in waiting and as the long cavalcade swept out of the station hundreds of persons cheered him.

In addition to a formal breakfast by the city officials, the program for the president's entertainment included an address to the Massachusetts legislature, an informal luncheon with the Pilgrim Publicity club, review of the Evacuation and St. Patrick's day parades in South Boston and "calls" at the dinners of the Charitable Irish society, the Boston Bank Officers' association and the Yale club, of Boston.

Mr. Taft brought a green silk Shamrock with him from Washington and wore it proudly in the lapel of his coat.

First Speech of Day.

The president made his first speech of the day over his coffee and rolls at the City club, where Samuel L. Elder, a brother Yale alumnus and one of the American representatives at the fisheries arbitration court at The Hague, presided. President Taft said that he would have to be excused from talking on any public question in view of his remarks later in the day before the Massachusetts legislature. He pointed out that although he was brought up in

Ohio and "educated in the Philippines," as he expressed it, he was of thorough Massachusetts stock. "In the town of Mendon," said he, "there is a tablet which bears the names of twenty-seven of the founders of the town, and I am descended from seventeen of them."

Made Pointed Reference.

The president in his address made a rather pointed reference to the proposition, "let the people rule" and had something to say about the recall of the judiciary and the recall of judicial decisions.

Irresponsible assaults upon either in temperate language or on baseless assumptions of corruption or bias, or incompetence, made by those whose statements have influence with any part of our people, are a serious menace to enduring government," said the president. His address in part follows:

"You have recently passed what is called a 'presidential primary law' for the election of delegates to the national conventions, upon which will fall the duty of selecting the presidential nominees of the respective parties. I have not had opportunity critically to examine the new law, but I am sure it makes proper provision to meet the obvious requirements. I am glad you have done this."

"I am not going to stop and discuss in detail the question of direct primary elections, their uses and abuses. I think every one will admit, however, in order that they may accomplish the good they are intended to accomplish, they should be safeguarded by effective provision as to the party eligibility of voters who participate in them, and by rules provisions securing conformity to the principle of equal eligibility and the honest casting and counting of the ballot."

"I do not hesitate to say that in my judgment a voluntary primary outside the law known by its informal character as a 'snap box' primary, is worse than none, for it gives full opportunity to the ineligible electors of the other party to cast unfair votes and without the sanction and safeguard of penal provisions in respect to casting and counting the ballots is an open avenue for fraud and violence."

"It is eminently appropriate that in every election and in the discussion of all issues that affect the republic, we should discuss and hear much of the popular will and of the right of the people. This is a government based on popular control."

"We all concede that the operation of

WILL BEGIN IMPROVEMENT OF NEW FOSTER PARK SOON

Long Stretch of River Frontage is Magnificent Gift of Col. D. N. Foster and S. M. Foster to Fort Wayne.

Business men, professional men and labor leaders and citizens generally of Fort Wayne join enthusiastically in extending a glorious, heartfelt vote of thanks to Colonel D. N. and Samuel M. Foster for their magnificent gift of the strip of ground along the east bank of the St. Mary's river, south of the city, to Fort Wayne as a park site, which has just been announced. All agree that no other gift to the city has been of such magnitude and Fort Wayne is heartily congratulated in having as its residents such public spirited citizens. The Foster brothers have received hundreds of complimentary messages thanking them for their gift to the people of Fort Wayne.

The gift includes the land bordering on the east side of the St. Mary's river, beginning at the pumping station at Broadway and extending to the south line of the William Hartman land, including a frontage along the river of approximately one and three-fourths miles. In addition to this, the Foster brothers are pending for the purchase of the remaining two miles of river frontage between the south line of the land included in the gift and the St. Albans bridge. This will also be given to Fort Wayne.

Not a single restriction has been placed upon the gift except that it be known as the David N. and Samuel M. Foster park and that it be maintained forever as a park for the people of Fort Wayne.

To Start Improvement.

Col. D. N. Foster, who is chairman of the city park board, stated this morning that it is planned to begin the work of improvement at an early date and

IN HOT PURSUIT OF THE SLAYERS W. C. SEIPP ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL

Escaped Convicts Force a Farmer to Be Shield Against Bullets. A CLASH IS IMMINENT INSANE SAY FRIENDS.

Chicago, March 18.—William C. Seipp, head of the Conrad Seipp Brewing company, and son of the late Conrad Seipp, shot and killed himself today while the family was at breakfast in another room. The coroner was notified that Mr. Seipp had committed suicide.

Mr. Seipp, who was sixty-one years old, arose shortly after 7 o'clock and entered a room adjoining his bed chamber. Mrs. Rhoebe Seipp, his wife and three sons were seated at breakfast when they heard the shooting. Physicians who were summoned found Mr. Seipp was dead. Later attorneys for the family announced he had committed suicide in a fit of insanity due to long illness. Since 1892, when Mr. Seipp retired from the brewing business he had devoted himself to real estate interests.

REPORT TWO SLAIN AND ONE CAPTURED.

Lincoln, Neb., March 18.—Advices received here and confirmed from three different sources declare that posses have killed Taylor, Morley and Dowd and have captured Morley.

The report reached here at 2:30 p. m. that Taylor was killed, Dowd committed suicide and Morley surrendered. The fight occurred between Gretna and Chalco. Another report has it that Roy Blunt, the farmer, who was driving the conveyance, was killed.

Louisville, Neb., March 18.—The three convicts who last week murdered three officials in Platte penitentiary at Lincoln, are being pursued north of here by posses from Omaha, Lincoln and Plattsmouth. Their death or capture is expected momentarily.

They are being driven toward Springfield in a sleigh by Roy Blunt, a farmer, who resides three miles north of town. The convicts are lying down in the body of the vehicle, forcing the farmer to expose himself to the bullets of the posse as soon as they get in firing distance.

The convicts entered the Blunt home shortly before noon and ordered Blunt to take them in his sleigh to Springfield. He refused at first, but they threatened to kill him and he acceded. The pursuing posses are now only a few hundred yards behind the sleigh, but have so far fired no shots for fear of wounding the driver.

Tie Up Farmer and Wife.

A special train is coming from Omaha and another has already arrived at Louisville from Plattsmouth carrying large posses. The three murderers, Taylor, Morley and Dowd, spent Friday night, all day Saturday and part of Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blunt. On a farm five miles east and a mile north of Haystack, after trying Mr. and Mrs. Blunt so severely that they could not liberate themselves they cut the telephone wires and left the house. During their stay they compelled the persons in the house to serve them with meals and permitted no one to leave. After leaving the

FLOOD MENACES AT LOGANSPORT

Thirty Families Are Driven from Their Homes by High Water.

Logansport, Ind., March 18.—Nearly thirty families living along West Wabash avenue, State street and Melbourne avenue were forced to move from their homes early today when the Wabash river again overflowed its banks. The big ice gorge at Georgetown, eight miles west of the city, caused the water to back up flooding the west side of the city. Shultztown, on the south side of the river, is inundated, and families which did not move out moved to the second stories.

The Panhandle tracks at Kenneth, five miles west of the city, are under fire feet of water, and trains to and from Chicago are detained over what is known as the Chicago Hill branch. Scores of farmers near Kenneth and Georgetown have abandoned their homes. The tracks of the Vandalia railroad are in danger of being undermined and a large force of men worked all night, dumping ballast along the roadbed. The Panhandle kept two engines and two strings of heavily loaded boats near the bridge crossing the river to protect it if the ice in the river should go out. The water is almost up to the floor of the bridge and it probably would be carried away if the ice comes down.

TO GIVE ENTERTAINMENT.

The musical program will be directed by Professor Adolf Stimmling.

HAD SOME PREJUDICE AGAINST PREACHERS.

Muncie, Ind., March 18.—"He said that he would rather have a horse thief in the house than a preacher, and didn't want me to go to church," testified Mrs. Martha Pittner, suing Henry Pittner for divorce in the circuit court. Judge Frank Ellis decided that the holding of such sentiments by a husband constituted "cruel and inhuman treatment" of the wife and within the meaning of the statutes so granted her a divorce decree. The husband refused to testify in his own behalf.

F. B. Taylor's Postoffice Mystery

"I WAS in the lobby of the post office the other day, busily engaged in filling out a money order application blank," explained Frank B. Taylor, "when I felt something touch my foot. I glanced down unconcernedly, supposing I would find that a dog had brushed against me, but didn't notice anything, so I went on with my writing."

"Again, something touched my foot and seemed to brush against my leg. This time I became interested and made a careful survey of the place for the dog which I thought had touched me. I saw nothing near the table except a wicker basket and a grain sack which was tied up with a string lying on the floor. By this time, I was more than interested, and took a good look at the surroundings, but no dog or other prowling quadruped could I see. So I went on with my writing when once more I was 'touched.' This time, I looked quickly down. It seemed to be the sack itself that had rubbed against me, for it was moving. Just then, a man, who was writing at the opposite side of the public desk, finished his work, picked up the sack and went to ward the door. One squawk from within the sack told me there was a chicken in it."

PRISONERS SENT UP BODY BROUGHT HERE

Sheriff A. M. Reichelderfer, prosecutor Harry Hilgenmann and Garfield Baker, a burglar, spent an uncomfortable twenty minutes in an elevator car today when it stuck between floors at the court house and delayed proceedings about twenty minutes.

Asks $5,000 Damages.

In the superior court the case of Dr. Zanith E. Stamets against Charles Good for $5,000 damages was placed on trial before a jury today.

Stamets seeks to recover the money because of his arrest for failure to turn over a key to some property he rented of Goodman. The arrest is one under a comparatively new law which has been used extensively by landlords in the justice's courts and a number of arrests have been made. This is the first that has found its way into the higher courts.

Divorce Case Dismissed.

In the circuit court the divorce case of Euelie Rathert against Frederick Rathert was dismissed today.

Charges Filled by Victim.

Suit was filed by Nina Lehman against Jacob Lehman in which it is charged that he failed for two years to support his wife. Colerick and Hogan are her attorneys.

Daughter is Remembered.

Justice of the Peace Graebner fined Robert Fleming $1 and costs for assault and battery for assaulting Elizabeth Fieber and he was sent to jail. Fleming had served time for another offense and only recently was released from jail.

Made Him Pay Taxes.

County Assessor William Eggemann landed on I. A. Cain, a transient merchant, and made him pay $18.90 taxes. He has been selling goods at auction and failed to settle with the county.

Short Change Man Working.

A short change man got $5 from the Getz, Sharp and Orr grocery and the same amount that has been worked through a trick times before. He made a small purchase, tendered a $10 bill and asked for it back and in the exchange managed to nip out $6.

PRESIDENT MAKES REPLY TO ROOSEVELT

elections and the operations of government are not perfect and are sometimes subject to corrupt influences and control, and that it is the part of patriotism to remove, as far as possible, the obstacles which prevent honest primaries, honest elections and the honest administration of the government in the interest of the people, but the continued iteration and reiteration of the proposition "let the people rule," if it has any significance at all, and is intended otherwise than to flatter the people, is intended to be a reflection on the government that we have had down to the present time.

Says People Really Rule.

"Now, in spite of all the corruption, in spite of all the machine politics, in spite of every defect in the operation of our government that can be pointed out, I do not hesitate to say that the history of the last 135 years shows that the people have ruled. They may have been defeated at times by corrupt and corrupting influences, congresses and legislatures may have been halted by subterranean methods in carrying out what the people desire, but in the end, under our present constitution and our present laws, we have had a really popular government.

"I don't mean to say that we cannot make it better. I don't mean to say that we may not remove some obstacles by which corruption of machine methods may be minimized, but what I do say is that the cry that the people do not rule and are not in control or do not intend to take effect, does not do justice to the American people or their history, and holds us up to the world at large in a light which does not do us justice.

Presents Attack on Judiciary.

"The occasion for these remarks is the attack upon our judiciary and the proposal by judicial recall, or recall of judicial decisions to destroy its independence and thus to take away from the arch of government the keystone. I deny that there is in the decision of the courts, or the character of the judges or the result of litigation, that which justifies such a radical innovation. HUNTINGTON CLERK

INHERITS FORTUNE

Death of An Uncle Gives Him Valuable Orange Farm In California.

Huntington, March 18.—S. L. Wiley, a clerk at the King Bee restaurant, on East Market street, yesterday received word that he had acquired forty acres of land near Fresno, California, valued at $13,000, through the death of a rich uncle. Wiley's mother was an only sister to the uncle and Wiley is the only nephew now living and was made the heir to the property by the uncle's will.

The uncle, H. V. Wiley, went to California several years ago and took up orange farming. At the time of his death he had forty acres of orange grove land near the city of Fresno. The land is situated right in the heart of the orange producing district and is considered one of the most valuable farms in that section of the country.

S. L. Wiley is twenty-seven years old and has had no permanent home since the death of his mother. He is an expert in the restaurant business and has had no difficulty in keeping himself employed wherever he goes. He has been in Huntington only twelve days.

Sage Tea Will Darken the Hair Restore Faded and Gray Hair to Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our grandmothers kept their hair dark, glossy and abundant by the use of a simple "Sage Tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of Sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to old-time, tiresome methods of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product, Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy.

This preparation gives youthful color and beauty to the hair and is one of the best remedies you can use for dandruff, dry, feverish, itching scalp, and falling hair. Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist today, and you will be surprised at the quick results. Traffic was held up for several hours. Both train crews knew that a collision could not be prevented and all succeeded in jumping to safety.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

NEW YORK ALL STAR CAST

In the Best of All Comic Operas, "Pinafore," at the Majestic This Evening. To those who vividly recall the tremendous vogue of "H. M. S. Pinafore," which is likely to go down into theatrical history as the most popular opera ever written, it really doesn't seem that more than thirty years have passed since its first performance. But to those who knew good old "Pinafore" then, and those who have never come under its swaying spell, the splendid New York Casino revival of the Gilbert and Sullivan classic, which comes to the Majestic theater this evening will have uncommon interest. No comic opera ever given to the stage enjoyed the success of "Pinafore." And it appears entirely proper that the New York home of the greatest musical comedy successes of recent years, the Casino, should have harbored the good ship upon its return to the American stage.

SOMETHING FOR THE GIRLS.

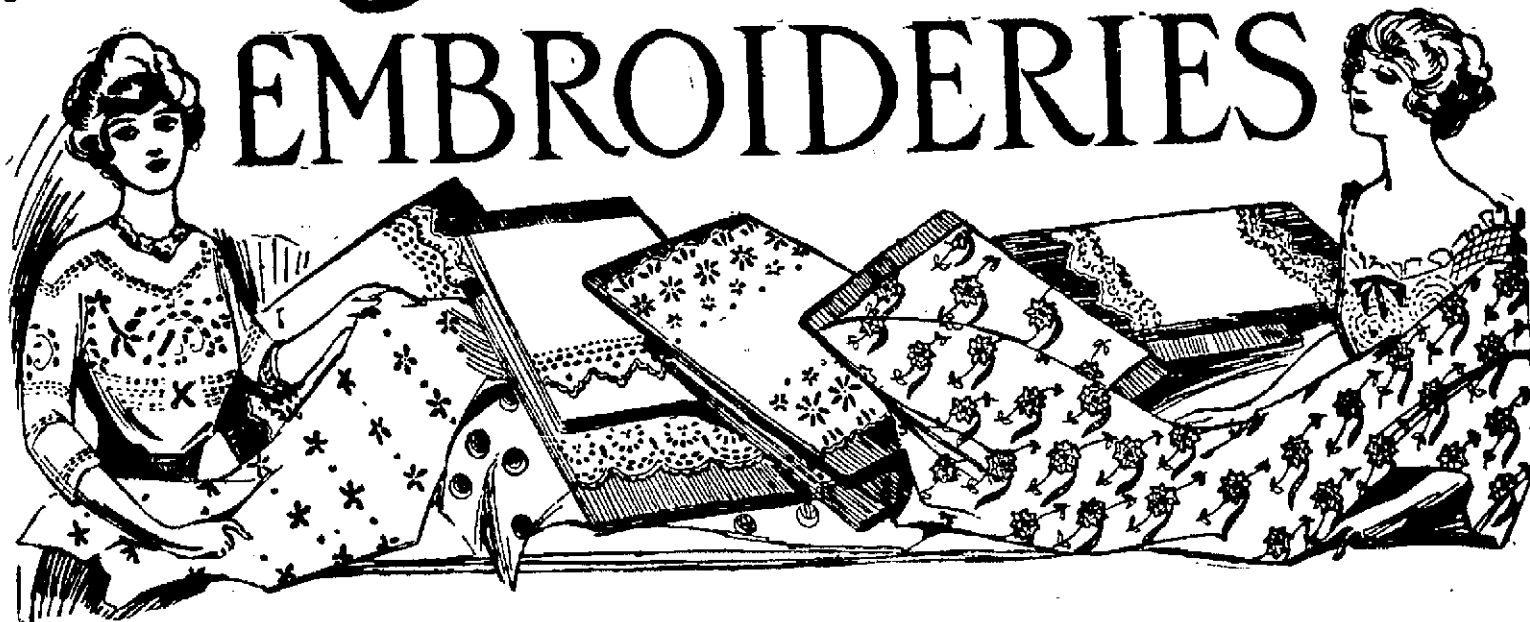

A girl who is able to sew for herself has a great advantage. She has prettier and more dainty things than her sister who cannot sew, and in years to follow there is no greater asset a woman can have than the ability to make her own clothes and clothes for the children. Girls are afforded an excellent opportunity to become good sewers by Foster's waist factory, who has just organized a department for the purpose of instructing beginners. The apprentice not only has the advantage of the experience and knowledge of competent instructors, but is paid while learning and in a very few weeks the operator becomes proficient enough to make many garments for herself that seemed an impossibility to her before beginning the course of training. 10 Ct

BEAVERS DIES FROM INJURIES.

Churubusco Man Could Not Tell of Accident Which Resulted in Death.

After suffering two weeks from injuries sustained in mysterious manner, Jesse Beavers, of Churubusco, who was found lying beside the Nickel Plate railroad tracks near Burket, on the night of March 4, died at 6 o'clock Sunday morning at the Lutheran hospital. At no time since the man was found had he been able to give a coherent account of the manner in which he sustained his injuries. At times he was able to recognize members of his family, but could not talk of the accident.

Mr. Beavers was thirty-two years of age and is survived by the father, one sister and brothers, all of whom were at his bedside when death came. The body was shipped to Churubusco Sunday afternoon, where interment will be made.

What is probably the world's record as a public singer is held by Mrs. George V. Johnson, who for more than sixty-two years has been soloist in the Presbyterian church. She has traveled a distance of more than 40,000 miles in merely going to and from her choir rehearsals and church services, while the actual time she has spent in a choir seat would amount to the equivalent of one year and a half.—Pike (N. Y.) Gazette.

According to the Scientific American, experiments at present in progress in Paris as the result of which it is hoped to secure an increased light efficiency from incandescent gas burners. Under present conditions the gas pressure in the mains is sufficient to draw a certain amount of air into the burner, where it becomes mixed with the gas, causing the characteristic blue flame. But the amount of air thus drawn into the flame is only about three times that of the gas, whereas, for the best effect, the ration should be five to one. It has been found that by compressing the gas in the mains the desirable ratio of air can be caused to enter the flame. One of the boulevards in Paris has lamps working on this system, and the results are exceedingly satisfactory.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

It is with regret that The Sentinel today announces the retirement from its staff of Mr. Harry M. Williams, for fifteen years managing editor of this newspaper. Mr. Williams some time ago made arrangements to engage in other business and tendered his resignation, which today has become effective. Mr. Harry L. Askew, who has been city editor of The Sentinel since 1899, succeeds Mr. Williams as managing editor.

A SPLENDID PHILANTHROPY.

The gift to Fort Wayne by Col. D. N. Foster and Hon. Samuel M. Foster, of the beautiful park site along the St. Mary's river in the southwest part of the city is altogether the most valuable and significant benefaction ever made for the use of our people. The Foster brothers have chosen not only the best possible form a gift could have, but they have chosen a time for bestowing it that will have vast influence in encouraging the people of Fort Wayne to go ahead and do what they ought to do in carrying forward the splendid scheme of improvement that has been planned. The gift comes free and untrammelled to the city. It is a measure of pure philanthropy in which the donors have taken care that no interest save the perpetual welfare of Fort Wayne and her people shall be directly served. They have done this fine thing because they want to add something to the higher progress of the city and want to contribute something to the pleasure and happiness of its citizens today and for all time. Fort Wayne has no citizen more public-spirited and progressive than the Messrs. Foster. During all their long residence here they have always had an active interest and borne a helpful part in whatever concerned the interests of the city and the public welfare. Foster park will be to them a monument of the kind of citizenship which makes cities great not only in material ways but great in that beneficence to humanity which must underlie true progress. With this splendid example of public spirit and philanthropy now set before them the people of Fort Wayne should highly resolve to deserve the gift so freely bestowed. They must live up to it, and in no better way can that be done than by completing the great scheme of improvement so magnificently begun by the Brothers Foster.

THE WAR IN INDIANA.

The republican situation in Indiana is shaping itself for place as one of the most interesting episodes of the Chicago convention. Already two district conventions have been held with results that will be made the base of contests in the gathering next June. In the First and Seventh districts Taft delegates have been chosen and instructed. In the First district the Roosevelt faction withdrew from the regular convention, held a bolters' caucus and put up Roosevelt delegates. In the Seventh district (Indianapolis and Marion county) the Taft crowd carried everything at the primaries and in the convention which followed selected and instructed Taft delegates. The Roosevelt managers make the most sweeping and circumstantial charges of fraud in the primaries and will carry the contest to Chicago. These fights will no doubt be duplicated in every Indiana district where the Taft men are able to control the convention and pick and instruct Taft delegates. No contest between the two great parties in Indiana has never developed such bitterness of antagonism as seems to be growing out of this war between the republican factions of the state. To what lengths it may go beyond the Chicago convention are not readily foreseen. But it is apparent that it will not leave Indiana a very doubtful state to be fought for at the election in November. Its effect on the campaign for congressmen and the states offices will be far-reaching and full of peril. The machinery is in the hands of the Taft faction and it is being used with notable effect.

Later in the present week the board of works will examine bids for a considerable number of street paving contracts. The competition is open, as it should be, for the protection of the public, but this ought not to mean that the board is ready to award to anybody on anything which may happen to be lowest. The board should have the greatest concern for getting the best bid. Fort Wayne has had about all the experience she can afford in taking things for granted in the matter of street paving. For testing materials the place is in a laboratory and the time is before the materials have been put in a street. A bad bargain costs the property owners directly and all the people indirectly. The indemnity bond does not and cannot indemnify for everything. It ought to be the general practice of the city to have scientific tests made of all materials used in street pavement—a standard test that shall be used as the basis and guide for the rejection or acceptance of such materials. Such a practice would have saved the people of Fort Wayne many thousands of dollars in years gone by.

The park site and river drive just given to the city by Col. D. N. and Hon. S. M. Foster, includes a strip of the most charming scenery along any of the three rivers of Fort Wayne. The possibilities for developing it are almost without limit, though its natural beauties are such as can be brought out at once. They could not have chosen more wisely in the selection of a site.

There is an unexpected absence of unanimity and enthusiasm in that "call" the associated governors promised. The Colonel should reach him so soon as he should give the word that he would listen. It is getting into the general gossip of politics that he has noticed it himself.

Just note the gift made by the Messrs. Foster to the city of Fort Wayne. It is a magnificent present that ought to encourage somebody to want to be "next" in the good work.

The weather engineers ought to bear in mind that near the end of the present week winter will end and spring begin.

Singular what a tremendous number of minds that work in paragraphic spurts got busy not only in unison but simultaneously on the interesting and timely topic of the judicial recall as exemplified in the hill district of Virginia. Seems to have been nothing either personal or concerted in it, either.

The Roosevelt faction is now without anything at all resembling a state organ. The Indianapolis News is rabid anti-Colonel and the Star finally has almost struck a distinct Taft gait.

THE NEW POLICY TOWARD MEXICO.

Intervention Clamor Suspicious.
New York Evening Post: "The clamor and pressure for intervention by this country have been highly suspicious. If the reports are only half true which say that a fund of $4,000,000 is lying in El Paso banks for the purpose of financing a Mexican insurrection, inquiry ought to be made what Americans have given any part of the money and for what purpose."

Better Than Intervention.
Brooklyn Eagle: "The motive for the joint resolution is commendable and the usefulness of its policy cannot be denied. The policy is drastic, it goes very far. Yet if it can be carried out it may be better than intervention, better than war."

No Pretect.
New York Sun: "No matter how bad the revolutionary situation becomes as between the Mexican federal government and the insurgents, the United States will have no cause for intervention."

Good Faith at Stake.
Philadelphia Press: "Our national interests, as well as our good faith and our duty to the people of Mexico and to those foreigners who must in large measure look to us for any protection which might unhappily not be within the power of the Mexican authorities to give them, all require that we should do everything in our power to preserve the strictest neutrality in the present crisis."

Remove Doubt.
San Antonio Express: "The interests of this country and its international treaty with a foreign government demand the enactment of specific laws on this subject and a well defined policy by the government in executing such laws as will leave no doubt on the part of federal officials as to their authority nor doubt on the part of would-be revolutionists in this country as to their fate if they violate these laws."

Hands Off.
Los Angeles Tribune: "Nevertheless it is not the business of the United States to jump into the boiling pot. We have troubles of our own to settle. Americans in Mexico should leave the country, even though it mean hardship and loss. In due time indemnity will be demanded and secured. The worst foe of this country and of imperilled Americans across the line is he who counsels any form of intervention in behalf of Big Business."

Fair Play.
San Francisco Evening Post: "It will not be long before all of the Latin-American republics realize that the United States government stands first, last and always for fair play for the weaker nations of this continent."

Mexico's Loss.
Boston Advertiser: "The interest of the United States in this question with which Mexico is wrestling is very great. There is a very intimate connection between the interests of the two countries. The loss of Mexico is also to a certain extent the loss of the United States."

"UNTOLD EVILS" OF A COURT DECISION.

(New York American.)
If it be true, as Chief Justice White thinks, that untold evils are likely to result from the decision of the supreme court handed down Monday in a patent case, plain people will wonder why the majority of the court felt bound to decide the case as they did.

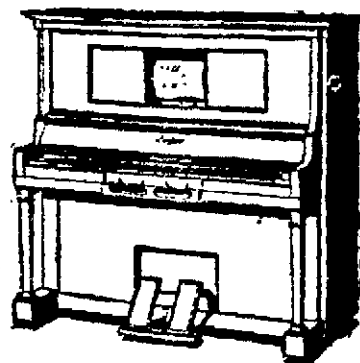

Such inquiries will be told by the wisecracks that the fault—if fault there be—is not with the supreme court, but with the law, and that, if the law is wrong the people have only to go to congress with unanimous clamor and get congress to change the law.

Probably there are a good many simple-minded people who will not be satisfied with such an explanation of the relation of the courts to common sense. These will be likely to point out the fact that the actual state of the patent laws seems to be such as to furnish moral justification to the chief justice and two of his associates in taking a view of the law more favorable to the people and to civilization in general than that taken by the majority of the court. If, therefore, the majority refused to take this view they must have refused, not because the view of the chief justice was legally absurd, but only because it seemed to put some slight strain upon the letter of the law.

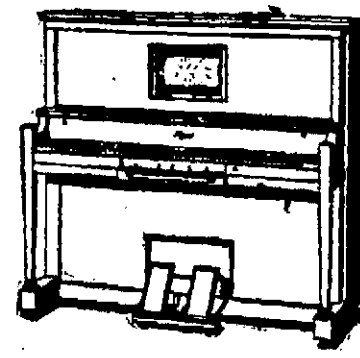

Thus the question arises: Is or is it not better to strain the letter of the law than to so construe it as to entail "untold evils"?

Upon this question the gravest issues hang. It is to be hoped that the day is near at hand when the courts of this country, from the highest to the lowest, will understand that the courts and the physical and the intrinsic laws of social health and progress are a part of the constitution of the United States, and that congress must be supposed to intend to further the general welfare, in the absence of very explicit words to the effect that it is just trying to put money into private purses.

As for the law of patents, it ought to be clear to any court that patents are given not in order that patentees may make it hard for other people to live, but, on the contrary, they are given for the purpose of advancing the practical arts and raising the general standard of living.

Bids were opened at Washington yesterday for the iron work for the Fort Wayne public building. Haugh, Ketcham & Co., of Indianapolis, bid $7,226, but were underbid by Clark & Kaffen, of St. Louis, whose bid was $5,208. This is for the east extension secured us by Judge Lowry.

LYRIC THEATER

This is another big week at the Lyric, two excellent vaudeville acts headed by Mae Kessler, cornetist, and it is claimed she is the best lady cornetist in this country. Rose Denton, coon shouter and dancer, comes highly recommended. The feature picture is an Imp, "The Man from the West." A story of a rich westerner who prefers to marry a pretty and domesticated cook rather than a conventional society woman. Tuesday the famous "Nicholas Nickleby" in two reels will be featured and the regular price of five cents will be charged; never any advance in prices at the Lyric for special features.

"Thousands of Americans have seen the fallow, long-bearded Anton Lang at work in his modest pottery or on the Oberammergau stage as the central figure in the 'Passion Play,'" says a letter from Munich, "but we, who visited the place recently, in the wrong year and the more than wrong season, saw him in a new and humanly interesting role. In a rough, heavy coat, high wooden leggings, fur cap and old-fashioned wool mittens he sat on a sled. In front of him sat a little girl muffled tightly in heavy wraps. Her little gloved hands were on the wheel and she probably thought that she was directing the course of the sled. If facial expression may be taken as a guide, Lang was having a better time than when we saw him on the celebrated peasant stage."

SAFE REMEDY ENDS CATARRH MISERIES

Gives Instant Relief, Cures and Prevents Catarrh and Cold in the Head.

The quickest, best and safest way to cure catarrh or a cold in the head is by using a remedy that will "touch the spot" and do its work quickly without leaving any bad effects. Ely's Cream Balm, which is applied to the nostrils or rubbed on the throat or chest gets right at the root of the trouble and instantly relieves even the worst case of catarrh or cold. A few minutes after application you can feel a loosening up in the head, the pain and soreness are gone, the sense of taste, smell and hearing comes back and you feel like a different person.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, heals and strengthens inflamed membranes, takes away that stuffed up feeling and dull pain in the head, relieves the throat soreness and stops the nasty discharge which is the cause of the disgusting, hacking, spitting, blowing of the nose, and foul breath. Hay fever victims who are made miserable by fits of sneezing, coughing and wheezing get instant and permanent relief by the use of this simple remedy.

Don't suffer another minute. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve you immediately, and a 50 cent bottle will more than likely work a complete cure. All druggists sell it.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

THE DANCE AND THE THEATER

Catholic Missionary Warns Young People of the Immorality in Them.

ELOQUENT SERMONS

In his sermon delivered Sunday afternoon at the conference of the young people of the St. Mary's Catholic parish, attended by several hundred of the parishioners, Rev. George D. Heldmann, of Collegeville, who has been conducting the forty hours devotions at the church, denounced some of the popular evils of the day in a vigorous manner. His purpose was to warn the young people of the dangers that confronted them in the influence that the various forms of amusement had in drawing them away from the influences of the church and Christian living.

Dances that are immoral, attendance at theaters where improper plays are presented, promiscuous company-keeping, mixed marriages, and suggestive fashions were severely arraigned. Clearly and emphatically Father Heldmann cited that many of the so-called "popular dances" of the day were undeniably approximate occasions of sin for the participants. Such dances should not be tolerated and no self-respecting young man or woman should take part in them. He spoke of the indiscriminate attendance on theaters and moving picture shows, characterizing it as dangerous. "The American stage," he said, "is not what it should be. There are many immoral shows, and they are not decreasing. Productions of this kind appeal to the passions of the young people and are harmful in the extreme."

Father Heldmann also spoke of the dangers of promiscuous company-keeping and in regard to marriages he recommended that the young men and women marry in their own faith; that they realize the importance of the sacrament of matrimony, and receive it with a clean heart.

In conclusion Father Heldmann treated of the loyalty of young people to their parish and urged his hearers to take an active interest in all of their parish affairs; to join the societies and to contribute according to their means to the church.

The eloquent missionary Sunday closed the forty hours devotions which he has been conducting at the St. Mary's church, preaching at both the morning and evening services. The attendance of both occasions was large.

At the 7:45 o'clock mass Sunday morning at St. Mary's church, the members of the men's societies of the parish approached holy communion in a body. A sermon appropriate to the occasion was given by Father Heldmann. At the high mass at 10 o'clock his sermon topic was, "Christ Waiting in the Eucharist." The number of communicants during the forty hours was two thousand. After his eminently successful labors here, Father Heldmann left this morning for Milwaukee, Wis., where on Tuesday, the feast of St. Joseph, he will deliver the sermon at St. Joseph's church.

HOW MOUNTAINS WERE NAMED

Interesting to Trace Derivation of the Famous Ranges of This Country.

Adirondacks: Derived from the Canienga (Mohawk) Iroquois language, in which the original form is ratiron-taks, meaning "bark eaters."

Allegheny: A corruption of the Delaware Indian name for Allegheny and Ohio rivers, the meaning of the name being lost.

Appalachian: The name was given by the Spaniards under DeSoto, who derived it from the name of a neighboring tribe, the Apalachi. Brinton holds its radical to be the Muscogees, apala, "great sea," or "great ocean," and that apalache is a compound of this word with the Muscogee personal participle chi, and means "those by the sea."

Blue Ridge: So called from the hue which frequently envelops its distant summits.

Catskill: The mountains were called katskills by the Dutch, from the number of wildcats found in them, and the creek, which flows from the mountains, was called Katskill, "tomcat's creek."

Ozark: The aux arcs was said to refer to the bands in white river, and was applied to the Ozark mountains, through which the river pursues a wandering course—in other words, to the mountains at the "bends of the river."

Sierra Nevada: A Spanish term signifying "snow-clad range."—Geological Survey.

HONOR IS PAID TO ST. PATRICK

Anniversary of Ireland's Loved Saint Appropriately Observed.

SERMONS OF THE DAY

The anniversary of the birth of St. Patrick, the beloved saint who did so much during his life for the people of Ireland, was most appropriately observed Sunday by the sons and daughters of Erin in Fort Wayne, services in honor of the occasion being held at the Cathedral, at St. Patrick's church and at St. Patrick's Lyceum.

The usual parade on such occasions was dispensed with. Members of division No. 1, of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, attended in a body the St. Patrick's Catholic church at 10 o'clock, where they received holy communion and high mass was celebrated. The sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Delaney.

The sermon at the Cathedral in the morning at 10 o'clock was preached by Rev. Francis A. Guibba. It was an eloquent tribute to St. Patrick, whose life he dwelt on, narrating his virtues and his work for the good of his people.

"St. Patrick," he said, "must have had the characteristics which through God would enable him to procure the wondrous effects we observe in Ireland's conversion. He realized he must be the model, the guide of the Irish people and he possessed two important requisites of those who truly love God. He loved prayer and practiced penance."

At St. Patrick's Lyceum.

On Sunday afternoon, at the St. Patrick's Lyceum, from 4 to 6 o'clock, a reception was held, a musical program rendered and refreshments served. The hostesses were Misses Irma Ble, Celeste Madden, Frances McGuire, Armande Breen, Kathryn Ryan, Catherine Sullivan, Mary Brown, Mary A. Shea, Mary L. Shea, Florence Donney, Catherine Flaherty, Agnes McCann, Julia Falvey and Agnes Muldoon.

The musical program was given in the auditorium. Mrs. Charles Horton, harpist, accompanied by Miss Frank, violinist, gave a number of selections which received generous applause. Two vocal selections, "Come Back to Erin" and "The Rosary," were artistically rendered by Mr. Peter Zurbuch, accompanied by Miss Margaret McArdle. Another vocalist who delighted all present was Miss Josephine Burns, who sang "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "The Bird Song," accompanied by Miss McArdle, who is a gifted pianiste. An informal social reunion of friends followed the entertainment.

At Library Hall.

In the evening the exercises in honor of St. Patrick were held at Library hall, commencing at 8:15 o'clock. The decorations of the hall were in green and most beautiful. Robert E. Kelley, president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, presided and a musical and literary program was rendered by the girls of the Cathedral parish. The speakers of the evening were Rev. John R. Quinlan, rector of the Cathedral parish, and Rev. Joseph F. Delaney, pastor of the St. Patrick's parish, both of whose addresses were eloquent and interesting. Father Quinlan said in part: "On July 4 we honor the stars and stripes, but Ireland has no day like this, but she had a day—the day of all days—which we are proud to honor, St. Patrick's day. It is loved and observed by the Irish, the day we celebrate the holiday of Ireland. No memory is more sacred than the memory of St. Patrick."

"Tonight wherever members of the scattered race may be recollections of St. Patrick come back, a recollection of the green fields and beautiful lakes. I am confident that the old banner of green will yet wave over an Irish parliament of college green and may we hope that, before another St. Patrick's day has rolled around, we can look upon Ireland as a great and glorious nation of its own. I am glad to see the Irish spirit that is manifest in Fort Wayne. We are all Americans to the core, but we cannot forget old Erin's soil and we want to see the Emerald Isle, the first flower of the earth and the first gem of the sea."

Father Delaney's Tribute.

Father Delaney followed with a grand tribute to St. Patrick, speaking in part as follows: "The faith of our people is something from which I cannot get away. When you travel to Ireland and see what our ancestors have done, we realize that faith is as strong today as it was 1,000 years ago, when St. Patrick planted the flag. We see what persecution has done, but faith is as strong as in any monastery in the world. St. Patrick is not only the patron saint of Ireland, but the saint of all the world. In nearly every nation on which the sun of freedom shines is ruled by some one with an historically Irish name. Those who have assembled here tonight to honor the day, have signified their allegiance, and the children who knelt at the altar this morning signified their fidelity. That's the faith of Christ, the faith which cost our fathers so much. May God hasten the day when we may look across the great sea that lies between us and the old green sod and see the dawn of freedom shining brightly for the long-looked-for day when Ireland shall be free."

In addition to Fathers Quinlan and Delaney, Father Mungovan, of Arcola, and Father Linn, of Arcadia, were present and gave brief addresses.

HELD MONTHLY SOCIAL.

The Ananath Bible circle of the Crescent Avenue Evangelical church held its monthly meeting Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Hopkins on Crescent avenue. The Misses Grace Meyer and Blanch McNulty assisted the hostess. After the business, games were enjoyed and a light lunch was served. The decorations were elaborately carried out in Irish green.

Marion Smith, of Hutchinson, is in an awful fix. He must either marry a woman named "Mary" or engage in costly litigation in order to secure legal title to some real estate which he bought not long ago. By mistake the deed, when he made the purchase, was made out to Mary Smith instead of Marion Smith. Now he wants to sell the land and he can't pass title because it is in Mary Smith's name. He is now looking for a girl named Mary whom he can marry so that he can get title to the land—Kansas City Journal.

Phoenix lodge, No. 101, K. of P., will confer the rank of knight upon a large class of candidates this evening. A large attendance is expected. A smoker and social session will follow the work.

SOCIETY

In honor of Mrs. Percy Nussbaum, of Marion, Mrs. Eugene Troendel will entertain a few friends on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Nussbaum is coming here to attend the concert to be given by the Minneapolis orchestra at the Majestic theater.

Mrs. J. D. Gilbert, of West DeWald street, celebrated her birthday anniversary yesterday, seventy-two being the exact number of years that she has lived. In celebration of this birthday anniversary there was a gathering of relatives and a few friends at the home of Mrs. Gilbert and a bountiful dinner was the special event of the day. The rooms were decorated with St. Patrick's anniversary favors. Palms and flowers made the rooms exceedingly attractive and favors and place cards at the dinner were pretty and appropriate. The guests from out of town gathered for this happy occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Coats, of Detroit, Mich.; Miss Geneva Kimmel, principal of the Butler high school; Miss Clara Scheas, of Kendallville; Herbert Kimmel, principal of the Auburn high school; Gilbert Morehouse, a student at the University of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gilbert, of Mishawaka. A great granddaughter of this city, who was only secondary in interest to Mrs. Gilbert, was Troma Irene Coats.

Miss Alice Knight gave a dinner and bridge party of very lovely appointment on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Virginia White and Roger I. Fisher. The floral decorations at the dinner were bon-bon baskets filled with spring flowers of delicate hues and fragrance. Miss White was given a corsage bouquet of forget-me-nots, frezias, violets and hyacinths. Covers were laid for sixteen.

Mrs. C. W. Zeigler, of Bellevue, O., is visiting relatives and friends here. Mrs. M. Lamley will leave on Wednesday for New York city to make her home with her daughter.

RECIPES.

Roast Mutton, Breton Style.
The Breton way of serving roast mutton is to push a clove of garlic into the knuckle end of the leg and serve with it a garnish of red beans. The beans are soaked and slowly boiled until tender then drained and turned into the pan with the meat an hour before the latter is done. Or, after draining, the beans are lightly fried in a little dripping and chopped onion and heaped round the meat as it is ready for serving.

Rice With Figs.
Wash clean one cupful of pulled figs; then cover with one and one-half cupfuls of cold water; bring slowly to a boil, and cook gently until tender. Turn into a colander, drain and chop fine. Soften one tablespoonful of gelatin in the same quantity of cold water; then dissolve in one cupful of hot fig syrup. Mix the chopped figs with two cupfuls of boiled rice, add the syrup and gelatin, and pack all into a buttered mold. When cold, unmold and serve with cream.

A TURKISH EFFECT.

There has been a decided Oriental influence in dress for the past few months, to look almost like Turkish trousers. A which expresses itself in the form of black lace shawl adds to the originality. White satin is used for the frock of the gown.

Reusch's mother, Mrs. Martha B. Hanna, Mr. Reusch will remain a fortnight and his family several weeks.

Mrs. J. F. Bennett, of 3028 south Calhoun street, entertained a few friends on Saturday evening in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Will Pfeiffer, of Clyde, O., who is visiting here. As the day was Mrs. Bennett's natal anniversary, that fact had additional interest to the gathering of friends and relatives.

Miss Marian Ingham, of south Webster street, entertained a company of young folks at her home on Saturday evening at St. Patrick's party. There were pennants and flags of green and the favorite color for the evening also appeared in the refreshments served after a time spent in playing games.

Miss Frances Maxwell and Miss Katherine Freese, of West Wayne street, have returned home after attending the state convention of the King's Daughters at Terre Haute. The young ladies stopped at Indianapolis and attended the reception and banquet of the 13th Delta Theta fraternity at the Claypool hotel on their way home.

At the meeting of the Fortnightly club this evening at the home of Judge and Mrs. Walter Olds, the paper will be read by Mrs. Olds and not by W. L. Moll, as is announced in the year book of the club. Mrs. Olds' subject is "Hereditary and Environment, Their Relative Influence on Mankind." On the discussion will be Mrs. A. K. Zartman, A. W. Parry, Mrs. I. N. Taylor and J. N. Study.

Mrs. Henry Cretsch was given a surprise party on Saturday by a number of relatives and friends who knew it was her birthday anniversary. A hand-some chair was given to Mrs. Cretsch and the merry company gathered for the evening enjoyed games, music and a supper. The guests were Mesdames M. Hengsteler, D. Eppa, J. Schaffer, R. Braund, D. Humpke, M. Schulte, C. Dickmeyer, E. Rison, William Hoffman, P. Turehman, Mr. Lauer, Mrs. Rudolph and Frieda Schaffer, Marie Hengsteler, Emma Braund, Sophia Hoffman, Luella Cretsch, Leonard Cretsch.

Miss Lillian Carter, of Webster street, celebrated St. Patrick's day by entertaining a few friends in the evening in a way that afforded every one there just the best kind of a time. On every side were decorations suggestive of the day. There were green shades to the lights, and dainty appointments of the fine supper, all appropriate to the day. The guests were Mesdames Hilda Getz, Adelaide Beuret, Lucy King, Florence Graff, Cletus Kinley, Agnes Brown and Mesdames Fred Frye, Edward Hrew, Clarence Getz, Sylvester Koltz, Earl Gaskill, Philip Telley and Eunice Rehyans.

The guests after the game of basket ball between a local team and one from Evans, O., when all were entertained by Miss Mary Henderson were Clara Frank, Clara Doniers, Mary Reiter, Catherine Stairs, Ruth Seipfers, Hulda Truesher, Margaret Miller, Loretta Alter, Elizabeth Moritz, Grace Henderson, Emma Krimmel, Effie Hyde, Mary Henderson, Walter Mercer, Carl Bandie, Hertha Rinker, Rex Schaffer, Carl Gilliam, Bill Mager, Herman Elinger. The out of town guests were Fletcher Howard, Clara Lahrman, Walter Wright, Don Parry, Lea Stalder, Earl Garroth, James Howard, Say Lechendorfer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boggs entertained a company of friends on Saturday evening as a farewell party to their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, who are to leave on Wednesday for Panama, Cal., to live. The rooms were beautifully decorated. Incandescent lights in forms of fruit and nuts contributed to the novelty of the decorative plan and shamrocks and flags in green lent a pleasing effect. Shamrocks trimmed the lunch cloths and place cards were shamrocks lettered in gold. When the delicious supper was served there were individual flower pots containing ice cream and tiny green flags waved from the top, while nut holders of green were further dainty touches of the pretty appointments. Covers were laid for fifty. Master Earl Martin had the honor of presenting Mr. and Mrs. Martin with a traveling satchel and his speech was prettily made. Letters from friends were given and will be read on the journey. An orchestra was screened from view during the evening and played many popular airs to the delight of the guests. The players were Clarence Commarie, pianist; Nick Schmitt, violin.

An Unique Instrument.
The Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, which will be heard here March 20, carries a rarely heard instrument, the celesta, which is used to obtain certain effects in some of the compositions of the orchestra's repertoire. The instrument was procured in Europe by Mr. Oberholfer last summer and occasioned much favorable comment during the season just passed, when it was used on a number of occasions. The instrument is shaped something like a small organ and has a key board similar to one, but its tone is different from anything else and has a celestial beauty which has given it its name. Tschakowsky and some other modern composers have used it with striking effect in some of their compositions.

Visiting Nurse League Meeting.
The annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse league will be held on Thursday afternoon in the vestry rooms of Ash-duth, Cathedral. The Ladies' Hebrew Benevolent society has invited the league to hold the meeting in their rooms. Rabbi Rice will be one of the speakers and Miss Laura Logan, superintendent of Hope hospital, will deliver an address. There will be music, the reading of annual reports and short talks about the work. Everyone interested is invited to attend the meeting.

Little Journeys Into Fashion Land

A distinguishing feature of the new millinery models is that they have grace and outline. Hats may be of almost any shape, but they must have shape. Whether the hat of today turns sharply off the face or whether it has a downward inclination, there is beauty of outline, a decorative simplicity which gives character.

The composition of a hat is as much an artistic triumph as the moulding of some curve in architecture or piece of furniture which shall stand as a model of an age of good taste and intelligent workmanship. In dress, as in everything else, we have much to learn from the art of past decades. The revivals from the past are modified somewhat to suit present-day requirements, but what we have retained and cleverly blended with modern art has the best possible results.

Take color, for instance, and consider the beauty of the reproductions of the pastel tones of the past, which have been quaint, faded beauty. These have been cleverly reproduced in tapestries, curtains and wall papers for the prevailing style of period decoration of rooms, and they have now extended to the world of dress, and some of the new season's hats are fascinating revivals of colors which our grandmothers used in the making of broochwork patterns.

For example, a smart hat seen the other day was in puce and pale gold straw, with a spray of wild field flowers in the same old world tones. Quite a picture hat this to go with the flower sprigged, muslin louvered panier frocks which are anticipated for early summer wear. Another hat in a faded shade of red, reminiscent of the past, was decorated with pink roses. A large gray straw was smart also; with two pink wings superimposed upon the crown and a decorative touch of pink here and there on the brim.

Our Splendid Showing of New Spring Millinery

Is Now At Its Best

There are a great many places where you can buy millinery. But it pays to be careful before spending your money, for the market is flooded with tons of trashy, flashy stuff that is neither becoming, practical or artistic.

Dehm's distinction consists in presenting the artistically beautiful and fashion-approved models exclusively.

Take our latest Spring styles, now on display in our big Spring Millinery Opening, as an example. The shapes are pleasingly proportioned, the trimmings are posed at just the right angle, the colors are true and appropriate to the season; in brief, these are millinery masterpieces. Yet, with all their exclusiveness and inimitable chic, these superior creations cost no more than many a trashy, flashy, unartistic contraption of commerce.

Even only as a matter of curiosity you ought to see them. Come today—while they are freshly new and at their best.

WILL BEGIN IM- PROVEMENT OF NEW FOSTER PARK

George E. Kessler, the landscape architect, who was employed some time ago by the Fort Wayne Civic Improvement association, has been notified to come to the city at his earliest possible convenience with a view of immediately laying out the ground for speedy improvement. The park board will also employ the services of Engineer Grosvenor, of this city, to prepare a cross section survey of the park site, which will be of great assistance to Mr. Kessler when he reaches the city.

"The park board will instruct the people of the southwest park district to be of assistance in any manner possible," said D. N. Foster. "They now have a park and are at liberty to go ahead and develop it. The park will be for all the people of Fort Wayne, but naturally the people of the southwest part of the city will be directly benefited."

A Large Acreage.

The ground already purchased and way between the extreme ends of the park site. The road at present is known as the Hartman road and was built privately by Mr. Hartman. According to present plans this will be remodeled into a boulevard and it is planned to extend the street car line through to the river. The plan of Mr. Foster is to have the road terminate at a point between the Hartman woods of twenty-eight acres, and the Korte woods of fifteen acres.

Long Contemplated.

The gift made to the city has long been contemplated by the Fosters and three years ago when Charles Mulford Robinson, who wrote a report relative to the beautification of Fort Wayne, was taken over the ground, he was enthusiastic over the possibilities. Engineer Barnett, sent to Fort Wayne by C. E. Kessler, was also taken over the proposed park site and declared that nowhere near Fort Wayne was a better park site offered. The experts were enthusiastic over the magnificent trees, many more than a hundred years old, which among other things furnish a natural asset of great value. For acres along the front of the river there are natural advantages of many forms of forced, such as lagoons and hills, bordered beautifully by tall and stately trees.

THE PATH THROUGH THE WOODS IN FOSTER PARK.

given to the city embraces approximately seventy acres and represents an outlay of more than $20,000. When the Fosters have completed the purchase of other land along the course of the proposed park they will have made a gift to Fort Wayne and its people of more than 150 acres of ground and will have expended nearly $35,000. When this fact was made known to the people, expressions of sincere thanks were tendered from all.

Every inch of the ground already given by the Fosters and every inch of ground that will be included in the purchases to follow will go to the city. Not a particle of land has been retained by the donors. The gift is prompted merely by civic pride and also with a view of inducing other men in Fort Wayne to make further gifts of similar nature to the city.

"I know of at least four men in Fort Wayne that I can induce to do something similar," said Mr. D. N. Foster this morning. "This is a kind of monument that will be worth building."

Judge Vesey Aided Movement. In purchasing the ground for their proposed gift to the city, the Fosters were required to go into negotiations with Judge W. J. Vesey for the purchase of three acres of land owned by him along the river front. Upon being informed to which purpose the land was to be devoted, he refused to accept a dollar for it in payment and expressed his complete willingness to do all in his power to support the movement.

The road beginning at South Broadway and winding south to the river to the Hartman woods, is to be straightened so as to form a straight highway which will terminate at the river and

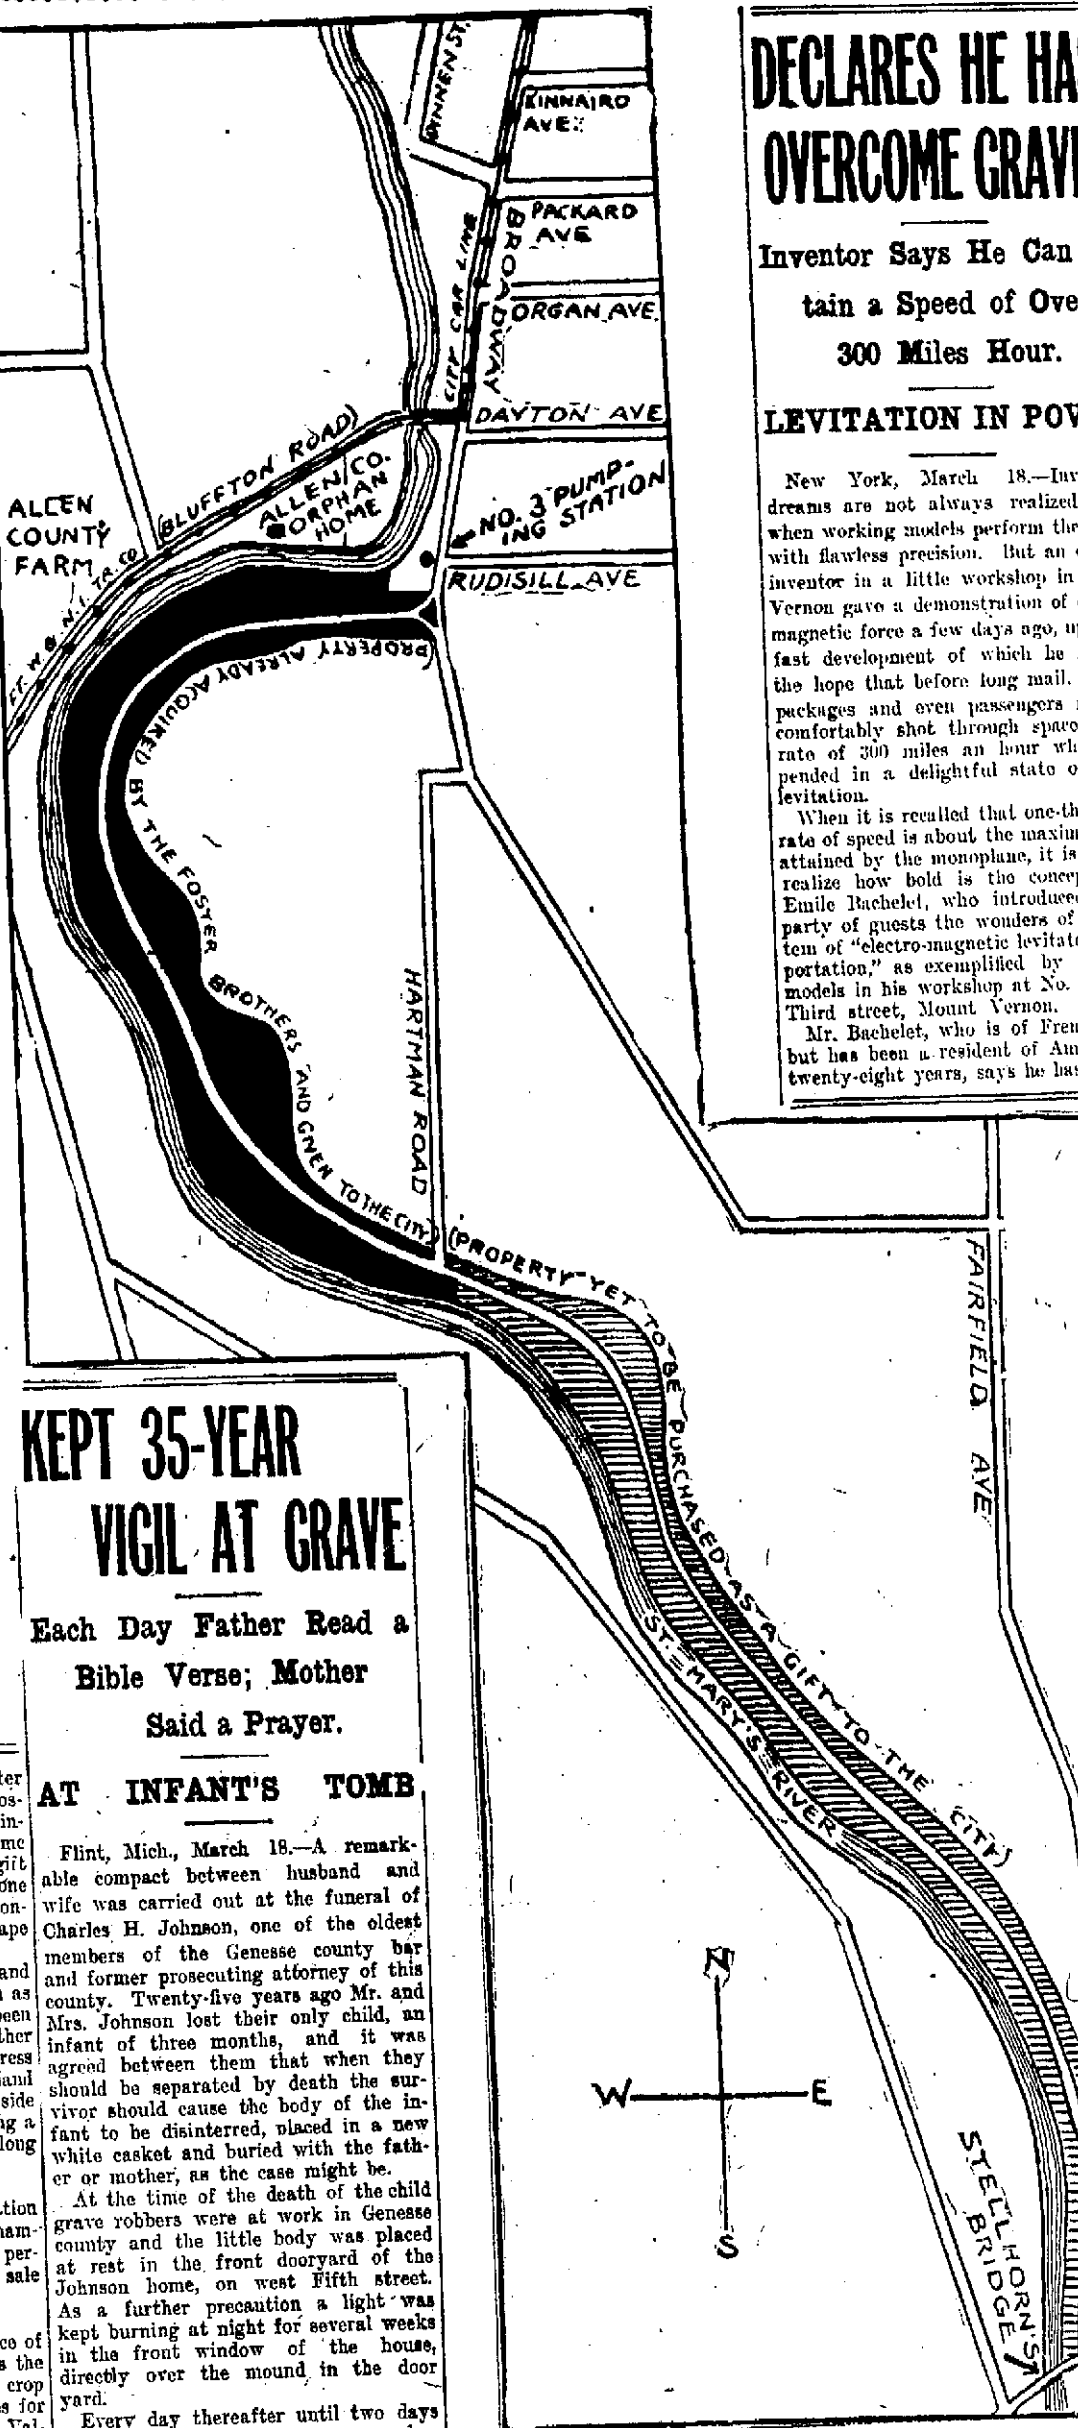

Four years ago Mr. David N. Foster in looking over the land saw the possibilities afforded and after some investigation decided that at some time he and his brother would make this gift to the city. Nothing definite was done until a few months ago, aside from consulting with engineers and landscape architects.

It is the opinion of the Fosters and other prominent citizens that as soon as the lines of the Foster park have been extended to the St. Mary's bridge, other citizens of Fort Wayne will express willingness to deed the city the land fronting along the river on the west side from the bridge to Broadway, forming a continuous park for four miles along the river.

A very pronounced rise in the price of cologne generally may take place as the result of the deficiency in the rose crop abroad. The yield of attar of roses for the Bulgarian district known as the Valley of the Roses, where some 7,000 acres are under cultivation, amounted in 1910 to 5,500 pounds, valued at $720,242, an average of $130 a pound, as against 11,000 pounds, valued at $895,438, an average of $81 a pound, in 1909. The 1911 crop has suffered from frost and the price of the petals has risen from 1 1/2 to 4 cents a pound. Certain restrictions which have heretofore existed against the oil of geranium will be removed, and this will take the place of attar of roses in the compounding of the cheaper perfumes.

Each Day Father Read a

AT INFANT'S TOMB

Flint, Mich., March 18.—A remarkable compact between husband and wife was carried out at the funeral of Charles H. Johnson, one of the oldest members of the Genesee county bar and former prosecuting attorney of this county. Twenty-five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Johnson lost their only child, an infant of three months, and it was agreed between them that when they should be separated by death the survivor should cause the body of the infant to be disinterred, placed in a new white casket and buried with the father or mother, as the case might be.

At the time of the death of the child grave robbers were at work in Genesee county and the little body was placed at rest in the front doorway of the Johnson home, on west Fifth street. As a further precaution a light was kept burning at night for several weeks in the front window of the house, directly over the mound in the door yard.

Every day thereafter until two days before his death Mr. Johnson read a verse from the bible and the wife offered a prayer before breakfast in memory of the baby that had been taken from them.

In conformity with the pledge she made to her husband a third of a century ago Mrs. Johnson had the grave in the front yard reopened. The little of substance and dust that the crumbling coffin contained after the lapse of so many years was transferred to a new casket, and as the remains of father and child were lowered into a new-made grave at Avondale cemetery the little white coffin rested upon the larger and more sombre casket, to which it was bound with broad bands of white ribbon. A Detroit milliner furnished the ribbon and came here to tie the coffins together.

LEVITATION IN POWER

New York, March 18.—Inventors' dreams are not always realized even when working models perform their part with flawless precision. But an obscure inventor in a little workshop in Mount Vernon gave a demonstration of electro-magnetic force a few days ago, upon the fast development of which he hazards the hope that before long mail, express packages and even passengers may be comfortably shot through space at a rate of 300 miles an hour while suspended in a delightful state of aerial levitation.

When it is recalled that one-third that rate of speed is about the maximum now attained by the monoplane, it is easy to realize how bold is the conception of Emile Bachelet, who introduced to a party of guests the wonders of his system of "electro-magnetic levitated transportation" as exemplified by working models in his workshop at No. 180 East Third street, Mount Vernon.

Mr. Bachelet, who is of French birth, but has been a resident of America for twenty-eight years, says he has been at

S.S.S. NATURE'S TONIC

The very great majority of persons need a tonic in the Spring or early Summer. The system undergoes a change at this season and the entire physical machinery is disturbed. The general bodily weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, fickle appetite, poor digestion, a half sick feeling and a general run-down condition of the system, show that the blood is weak or anemic, and a blood purifying tonic is needed to build up the damaged system and enrich the blood. The use of S.S.S. at this time may save you from a long spell of sickness, and it will certainly prepare you for the long, hot Summer. Many people have put off using a tonic until the system became so weakened and depleted it could not successfully throw off disease germs, and have paid for the neglect with a spell of fever, malaria or some other debilitating sickness. S.S.S. is Nature's ideal tonic. It is a composition of the extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks which science and experience have proven are best fitted for a tonic to the human system. It contains no minerals of any kind and is therefore perfectly safe for persons of any age. S.S.S. tones up the stomach and digestion, aids the system of that tired, worn-out feeling, and imparts vigor and strength to every part of the body. It purifies and enriches the blood, stimulates the secreting and excreting members to better action, quiets the over-strained nerves, and makes one feel better in every way.

Repels Aluminum.

Frank R. Humphrey, who is his constant and first lieutenant, makes no greater boast of professional distinction than does his chief.

Mr. Bachelet exhibited letters from the United States patent office stating that his patent will issue in his favor this week. He is already similarly protected in the principal countries of Europe. His basic patents cover the practical application in various ways of the principle of electro-magnetic repulsion. While the phenomena of electro-magnetic attraction are well known, Mr. Bachelet professes to be the first experimenter to develop and practically utilize the fact that, while the direct electric current strongly attracts metals, the alternating or interrupted current exercises upon certain metals, and particularly upon aluminum, a powerful repellant force, driving the aluminum away from the magnetic coil instead of attracting it.

By the utilization of this principle he apparently achieves the actual levitation of solid bodies of aluminum and of curblint of that metal, holding them in suspension and seemingly neutralizing with the force of electrical energy the law of gravitation. To a car thus held in suspension and guided only by means of small brushes, which are in light contact with thin grooved rails above and below the suspended body, he then applies a direct or alternating magnetic current, acting laterally, and so propels the car through the air and practically clear of all but atmospheric friction, at a tremendous speed.

Like Elevated Road.

The operating structure is not unlike that of the elevated railways, but the car in the model construction moves along an inch or more above the roadway instead of resting upon rails. There are no wheels and no need for them.

Leading up to the actual demonstration of his working model, the inventor endeavored to make clear to his guests its underlying principle by a series of interesting experiments. The only power used in the shop is taken from the feed wires of the city electric lighting plant.

Mr. Bachelet had an ordinary electro-magnetic coil, so arranged that a pin projected above its center about ten inches. Taking an aluminum plate five inches square and half an inch thick, with a small hole perforated through its center, he placed the plate over the magnet, inserting the pin through the hole. By means of his switchboard he turned one kilowatt of power into the coil and the aluminum plate instantly rose to a height of two or three inches above the coil and remained there suspended. Pivoted on the central pin it was even made to spin in midair.

Mr. Bachelet has also invented what he calls a synchronizing interrupter, by means of which he holds that he can increase voltage and also amperage at will to the extent of 100 per cent. Possessing a self-registering scale above his magnet coil, he loaded the scale pan with twelve pounds of metal. Then, turning on what he asserted was only one kilowatt, but increasing its energy by means of his synchronizing interrupter, the magnetic repulsive currents raised the scale pan with its load until the scale index had registered zero. He had counteracted gravitation to the extent of twelve pounds.

Uses Alternating Current.

For his model railway Mr. Bachelet has built across the floor of his shop an elevated structure thirty-one feet long. In place of ties the roadway shows a double line of electro-magnets placed at intervals of about one foot. Into these the current is carried from the switchboard. Upon the parallel rows of magnets rests the "car," which is simply a hollow steel cylinder, so made as to display the complete absence of any mechanism from its interior. This cylinder or pipe is fastened upon a bedplate of solid aluminum, which lies directly in contact with the magnets when the car is at rest.

The entire vehicle weighs forty pounds. When Mr. Bachelet switched on an alternating current of 110 volts the car rose clear of its bed with a metallic click, showing half an inch of daylight between the aluminum bedplate and the magnetic coils. With the application of 220 volts the car rose an inch higher, at which elevation it is held by the light overhead guide rail. Thus the car was held in levitation, the only contact points now being the small brushes held in contact with the upper and lower guide rails by means of springs, these brushes, however, sustaining none of the weight of the vehicle.

The car now being ready to start on its journey, Mr. Bachelet explained how he gave it the rapid lateral movement from end to end of the miniature line. While it is repulsion that accomplishes the levitation of the car, it is the attractive energy of a direct and not an alternating current which gives the forward and backward propulsion.

Near the two opposite ends of the road are adjusted two solenoids, or large coil magnets, which loop over the roadway as though they might be diminutive tunnels. With the levitation accomplished by means of the alternating current, the operator turns on the direct current into the solenoids, and the steel car, responding to the attracting energy, leaps forward like a projectile from a high powered gun, to be halted in its career by the almost instant reversing of the lever on the switchboard, while the assistant stands by to stop it with his hands.

A turn on the switch sends the car either forward or backward, and by deft manipulation of the lever the inventor was able to keep it oscillating to and fro.

Mr. Humphrey expressed confidence that at an expenditure of $333, so far merely as concerns the actual cost of electrical energy, he could raise and hold in suspension a car weighing two tons for a period of one hour, and during that hour the car would average a high speed of 300 miles an hour, or five miles a minute. The multiplication of the solenoids along the line, he said, could be made to increase the speed almost indefinitely.

With the car once held in levitation Mr. Bachelet said, magnetic means of propulsion is not necessary. An electrical motor driving an aerial propeller would be practicable.

The inventor's patent applications cover also the adaptation of the levitation principle to the problem of speedily raising an aeroplane from the deck of a war ship without the need of staging and the moving of ammunition from point to point aboard similar vessels. "The invention, however," says Mr. Bachelet, "is particularly adapted to the transmitting of mail, express packages and small articles over long distances at very high speed. It is also expected that it can be practically developed into a system for the moving of cash and parcel carriers in department stores, and when embodied in large apparatus for the transportation of freight and messengers."

Mr. Bachelet said he could give no estimate of the probable cost either of construction or operation of a practicable road built on a large scale, as the development of his ideas had not yet reached that point of commercial utility. There has been no incorporation undertaken as yet and no stock therefore is in the market. One of the spectators who appeared interested was William Wheeler, superintendent of the Westchester railway.

As stated by Mr. Bachelet, the primary object of his invention is "to obviate friction between moving parts and to provide a practically frictionless carrier floated or levitated to a maintained around such carrier and extend indefinitely."

Not Salts, Oil or Pills, But Cascarets

No Odds How Sick Your Stomach;
How Hard Your Head Aches or
How Bittous—Cascarets
Make You Feel Great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, ordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

Manhattan shirts, $1.50 to $4.00.

BOWLERS IN HOT FIGHT FOR LEAD

Doehrmann Leading Fort Wayne Association With Little to Spare.

STRUGGLE AT FINISH

Will Doehrmann is holding the lead among the bowlers of the Fort Wayne Bowling association, but he is holding it by such a narrow margin that either Ed Harkender, Frank Farnan, Billy Williams, Tony Ilias, George Harkender, or Sander or Fred Schwartz is liable to displace him at any time by a spurt.

The bowlers are going at a fast clip in the closing weeks of the season and a new leader may possibly be developed before the close of the schedule for this week. Games in average are hard to get at this stage of the proceedings, as it takes a few big scores to make any material advance.

Three games have been postponed by bowlers who attended the Chicago tourney last week and did not get back in time to bowl the games for which they were listed. The official averages follow:

MARTIN OFF TO REPORT.

Will Find Two Former Central Leaguers in Training Camp.
Grand Rapids, Mich., March 18.—Harry Martin received word from Manager Charles Carr of the Kansas City American association team to report at once at the training camp at Waco, Texas. He left last night, and will be on the job by midweek.

With Carr's crew he will find at least two former teammates. One is Pitcher Bill Riley, who started last season as a member of Dr. Harley Parker's 18-father and ill-regarded pennant pursuers, and who finished the season with the doubly-orphaned Newark outfit, as also did Martin. The other is Jim Withers, the left twirler from Conansville, Mich., who last year performed with Evansville.

PLAYERS PUT UP BETTER ARTICLE

Doehrmann Leading Fort Wayne Association With Little to Spare.

RACES ARE CLOSER

New York, March 18.—John Heydler, secretary of the National league, is of the opinion that the twentieth century ball player puts up a harder game than did his predecessor of twenty or thirty years ago. Heydler thinks the present day player puts up a harder game than did old-timers. He also believes the game is faster now than it ever was.

"Baseball has improved and is faster than it was twenty years ago," Heydler says. "It simply had to be so. Thirty years ago the supply of young ball players was limited. Today every small city has a ball team and the big leagues get the pick of these thousands of minor league performers. There was no paid scouts in the old days. Of course, there were times when a manager would be tipped off to a promising youngster, but clubs could not afford to hire one for no other purpose than to roam from one ocean to another searching for budding talent.

"The modern ball player also has to put up a faster game than the player of a quarter of a century ago, when there was not a bench full of youngsters ready to take the veteran's job at the first sign of a slump. Every spring now there are many players afraid they will lose their jobs. All teams take a small group of recruits to their southern training camps. These recruits are young and ambitious and their main desire in life is to be in the big leagues. Every season new stars are discovered, which means that the old timers must make room for them.

"In the old days there were no training camps of consequence and few youngsters got a chance to heat out the seasoned veterans. Managers were much more inclined to stand pat in the old days than they are now.

"The world's series is the greatest incentive to fast ball. Players are human, and the money that goes to both winners and losers in a world's series comes in handy in the winter time.

"The races also are closer now than they ever were. Of course, we still have runaway races in the big leagues, but as a rule our campaigns are much closer today than they were in the early days of the National league. Today there was one team which outclassed the others so largely that it was acknowledged as a permanent winner before the season was two months old. Close races mean better and faster ball. A team in the race will always fight harder than a team that is lumbering in the second division. The more teams with a chance for the pennant the faster baseball the fans will get, as every team in the field is anxious to get a share of the world's series spoils.

"I also think that the present day player makes a better uphill fight than the players of the '30's. A game nowadays is never won until the last man is out. In the old times, a team in the game years ago in which, when one team got a good lead, the affair developed into a farce. The outfielders of the losing team took their time chasing balls, and did not try to keep the winning team from hitting a home run. Today the outfielders were shirkers or quitters, but they did not take the game as seriously as it is taken now, and late rallies were exceedingly rare."

GERMANIAS ARE THIRD.

Score Withstood Strong Attacks During Tournament.

Scores of bowlers at the Chicago tournament have failed to disclose the Germanias from third place although some of the best clubs are scheduled to bowl here today against their mark. Five more days will decide the matter and it is certain the local club will finish with inside the money.

Leaders in two events, the doubles and nine-games contest, were slaughtered at the Dexter Park Pavilion yesterday in the American Bowling Congress tournament by two Louisville men, Nelson Owen and Phil Sutton posted 1,353 for the two-man mark, and Sutton a couple of hours later completed a 628 mark in the individuals that gave him 1,543 in the all-events and handed Al Sanderoff of the pleasure of fame, where he had been leading a lonely life for over a week.

FERGUSON TO JOIN BOSTON.

Terre Haute, Ind., March 18.—Cecil Ferguson has gone to Springfield where he will report to the Boston club of the National league. He will hit the Springs in pretty good condition and he said that a few weeks' training there would round him into condition.

He would like to get away from Boston. He thinks a change of pasture would do him good, but there isn't much chance that the Beane will let loose of him. The ex-Wiley star plays with a couple of National league clubs willing to bet a swap for him, but he is sound property and the Boston management knows it.

SATISFIED WITH VETS LINEUP FOR 1912

CHARLES "PUNCH" KNOLL, Manager Dayton Club.

Knoll has been at Dayton for nearly a month and now that all of his old players are in line he is satisfied that he will start the season with a little bunch on the rest of the club because the only men of great value lost to him have been replaced by promising material.

Spencer is hitting at a fast in New Orleans that indicates he will stick with the Pelicans and Compton will go to Louisville and it is not probable that Summers will be returned. The thinks he has three holes plugged up and is ready for the training season.

WINCHELL SIGNS A VET CONTRACT

Dayton Hurling Staff is About Complete for Season of 1912.

SPEEDER FOR CHAMPS

Dayton, O., March 18.—Slowly but surely the signed contracts of the Vet players are drifting in to Manager Knoll and there are now but two or three of the old Soldiers out of the fold. The latest athlete to affix his signature to a Dayton contract was Frank Winchell, whose big paper arrived at Vet headquarters today.

Accompanying the manuscript were a few words to the effect that one Winchell was in great shape this spring and sure to make the Central league batters open their eyes at his "stuff," when the old salary man gets working in real form.

The signing of Winchell practically completes the Vet pitching staff, as Otey, Fromholtz, Schultz, and most of the youngsters have already weighed in with their signed documents. The four heavyweights are expected to deliver the goods right from the start, while in the big crop of youngsters Manager Knoll is certain he will find at least one star to complete the flinging department. Of course it is possible that two or more of the youngsters will be able to make the team, but if a manager can pick up one pitching find a season he is not likely to kick on account of bad luck.

Winchell should have a good year. In 1911 he started out like a four-time winner, but during the hot spell he seemed to lose his control and a little ambition at the same time, winding up the season in a rather erratic manner. This spring he will have the advantage of more experience and Knoll is counting on him showing his best form throughout the year. Otey, Fromholtz and Schultz are almost sure to prove winning heavies and with four good men in line it looks as if the Vets are not so very badly off in the matter of flinging.

Of course no team these days is complete without its "Ty Cobbs," so the Vets just had to get in line. The "Cobb" who will wear a Vet uniform, for awhile at least, is Tommy Reardon, who hails from Chicago, where they do seem to have some mighty nifty ball players. Tommy is a college athlete, who has been picking up a little semi-pro education every summer and last year he won the medal for circling the bases in 145 seconds at the White Sox park field meet. This is certainly a pretty good record. President Reddell paid a visit to St. Mary's institute and was more than pleased with the condition of the different diamonds at St. M. I. Despite the hard rain of Thursday night and Friday the grounds were in comparatively good shape and with a few days of sunshine and little work with the roller there will be no trouble in providing the Old Soldiers with a place to get in trim for the coming season. The authorities at St. Mary's have been most than hospitable to the Vets and the students and the students are looking forward to the stay of the professionals in their midst with keen delight. It is probable that the St. Mary's boys will give the Vets a few battles before the season opens and it won't do for the Central leaguers to take things too easily in their games with the collegians, who have some ball team. DISCUSSING A REVISION

Electric Relief Union Has Important Matter in Hand.

BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE WORKS TO MOVE

Big Plant to Go to Eddystone This Summer—Shops and Rail.

Some definite action in the revision of the constitution and by-laws of the Electric Relief Union of the Fort Wayne Electric works will follow a meeting to be held in the assembly room at the works to-night. N. W. Alexander, who is connected with the General Electric at Lynn, Mass., in the capacity of special man on educational matters, arrived in the city yesterday and will address the members of the union at the meeting tonight, explaining relief union methods at Lynn, which is said to have the best organized and most successfully conducted association of its kind in existence. Mr. Alexander met the heads of the various departments of the big works in the reception room this morning, when the general meeting this evening was agreed upon. Several weeks ago, a committee was appointed to formulate a new constitution and by-laws for the relief union, and when they had their report ready to submit to the association it was decided to lay it on the table until Mr. Alexander could come here and advise the committee upon some matters of vast importance connected with the association work. The meeting this morning was presided over by J. H. Evans, chief shop clerk at the works.

THEY LIKE NEW ENGINES.

Pennsylvania Engineers Say They Can't Be Beat.

In reply to the inquiry, "Have you any fast runs to report?" a well known Pennsylvania passenger engineer said this morning: "Any engineer can make a fast run with the new superheater engines and would not deserve credit for it. With these engines the difficulty is to keep them from going too fast. Why, the other day, with one of these engines I made the run from Warsaw to Larwill, a distance of fourteen miles and up grade, every foot of the way, in thirteen minutes. I had a heavy train, too." Continuing this engineer, who has to his credit some very fine speed runs, adds: "I consider the superheater one of the greatest improvements in engine construction of the age." There are quite a number of superheater equipped engines in service on the Pennsylvania lines and all are said to be giving satisfaction.

Larwill Accident Victims Nearly Recovered.

E. C. Stump, who was the most seriously injured of the eight victims of the accident at Larwill February 17, who were taken to St. Joseph hospital, left that institution for his home Saturday. For some time his condition was critical and at times it seemed that he could not recover, but he has passed the danger point and his speedy recovery is assured. None of the patients taken to the hospital with injuries inflicted in that accident are at the hospital now, all having recovered to a point where they were able to go to their homes.

FROM GOTHAM TO BOSTON ON ICE

Old Inhabitant Recalls the Cold Winter of 1835.

CAUSER BREAD RIOTS

New York, March 18.—Seventy-seven years is a long time to go back, but George Leavenworth of Seymour, Conn., whose memory is still keen despite his age, recalls the hard winter of 1835, when navigation was closed by ice from New York to Boston and a horse attached to a sleigh was driven by way of Long Island Sound from this city to the Massachusetts metropolis.

In a letter to the New York Herald Mr. Leavenworth writes: "Seymour, Conn., March 15, 1912.—Who was the man who drove a horse attached to a sleigh up through Long Island Sound on the ice from New York to Boston? I read an account of the trip at the time, but have forgotten the man's name and also the name of the horse."

"The man was a prominent New York citizen, and, if I remember rightly, proprietor of one of the leading hotels on Broadway. The weather conditions at the time have not been repeated in seventy-five years."

"The snow commenced about eight a. m. on the morning of December 10, 1835. There was no wind to drift it, but it rained down thick and fast the 10th, 11th and 12th, and about sunset the 12th turned to rain, and it just poured for two and one-half hours. It stopped suddenly and cleared up intensely cold, and the result was a crust on the snow two feet thick and the snow was seven feet deep."

Recalls Great Fire in New York.
"The big fire in New York started the next day, December 13. The firemen were handicapped by the intense cold. As fast as they ran water into the hose it would freeze and burst the hose before they could get it to the fire. In less than one week Long Island Sound was closed with ice and remained so for more than three months. There was no open water between the island and the Connecticut shore, and the only thing that passed through it was that man, with horse and sleigh. He returned by the old stage road from Boston to New York."

"Many persons drove across the Sound, but only one drove the length of it. The farmers of this section depended upon local mills for their breadstuffs, but they were all frozen up. Not a wheel turned and we had to pound corn in mortars to piece out the bread. The coldest day of the winter was in the month of February, on a Friday, and for years was referred to as the cold Friday. The news items gleaned from papers in the New England states and the state of New York stated that twenty stage drivers were frozen to death on their seats that day."

"It was continuous sleighing until April 20, and the snow was still in evidence the middle of May. Not a thing could be planted till the first of June, which made crops late. Another misfortune came in the form of heavy frost early in September, which caught all the most all the corn before the kernels glazed, and that year the United States did not raise breadstuffs enough to feed our people. Well do I remember the bread imported from Italy, which had said in it."

"How conditions have changed! Then we had nothing west of the Mississippi river, and there was much wild country on this side of that stream. West of it, where now millions of bushels of grain are raised each year and millions of cattle roam the plains to feed the people all the way to the Atlantic coast."

Tells of Bread Riots.
"So widespread were the effects of this storm it was partly the cause of the great panic of 1837, when banks everywhere were going to pieces. It was a common remark, 'I don't dare to keep a dollar over night, for the bank may be broke in the morning.' Then followed the bread riots in New York. Flour was locked up and the holders asked $1 a barrel for it."

"Strong men, able and anxious to work, could not get an hour's work to do. Wives and children were crying for food. Finally a half clad girl ran down the street shouting 'Bread, bread!'"

That was the feather that broke the camel's back. Men rushed into the streets with whatever tools came to hand, broke in the doors of the houses where flour was stored, tumbled it into the street and bid every one to help himself. The speculators then came out and said: 'You can have it at $8 a barrel.' The reply they got was, 'To — with you. We have all the flour we want.'"

"There is no probability of another winter like that, and yet if we should get another storm like that of 1835 it would be a calamity very much to be dreaded. Dear in mind this was before the days of railroads, telegraphs, telephones, automobiles and electric lights, but of the tallow dip and the tinder box. I remember also this was the year that the friction match appeared, made by Thomas Sanford in a house still standing in the town of Beacon Falls. They were put up in paper boxes, one hundred in a box, and sold for ten cents."

"GEORGE LEAVENWORTH."
Herald Correspondent Letter.

The files of the Herald corroborate Mr. Leavenworth regarding many of the incidents of which he speaks. It is made clear in several paragraphs printed about the weather during the winter of 1835 that it was exceedingly cold. Exactitude regarding the prevailing temperatures does not seem to have been required in the daily reports, but that it was as low as zero and lower is mentioned. In a paragraph printed in the issue of December 12, in which is the first account of the fire of which Mr. Leavenworth speaks, and which is said to have started at No. 25 Merchant street, it is stated that not in the memory of the oldest inhabitant has it been so low at this season of the year. The North river is closed."

Simultaneously with the cold weather the files of these days also speak of the high price of coal. "We hear every one complaining," states a paragraph on this subject, "of the extravagant price of this article. About ten to fourteen days ago it was selling at $9 a ton. Now it is $10."

LUCKY ACCIDENT FOR MINER

What at First Seemed Adverse Stroke of Fate Turned Out a Caprice of Fortune.

Where hundreds of men are "prospecting" one of them is liable, of course, to stumble upon a ledge that "pans out" in paying gold or silver. That lucky "find" gives birth to a dozen stories about millionaires who have become "rich beyond the dreams of avarice" by some fortunate accident. The following story is such a one:

A miner named Adams was prospecting in a northwestern state. While trudging along, one hot day, through a gulch, where the sun had a good chance at his back, he suddenly smelled smoke. He glanced quickly in every direction to ascertain the origin of the smoke, but seeing nothing resumed his journey. A moment later the smell returned stronger than ever. A light wreath of vapor curled about his ears and gave him to understand that his haversack was on fire. Like all miners, he carried a large lens for the purpose of examining the specimens of the sand in his pan and the truth flashed upon him. For want of room he had hung the glass on the outside and the rays of the sun had been concentrated on his haversack, which was thus set on fire. As among its contents were 13 or 15 pounds of powder he lost no time in dropping the burden.

The haversack fell between two huge stones, out of sight. Adams reached a safe distance and watched the smoke rising from his worldly possessions. Suddenly there was a deafening report. The ground trembled and Adams dodged behind a huge stone. Rising, he went to the spot to gather up what he could find, when his eyes almost started out of his head at seeing the quartz that had been blown up fairly glittering with gold. His powder had done better on its own account than it had ever done on his, and had literally blown open a gold mine for his benefit. He was made a rich man and named his mine the "Nick of Time."

REAR ADMIRAL MELVILLE DEAD

Retired Naval Officer and Authority on Arctic Exploration. HAD ACTIVE CAREER

Philadelphia, March 18.—Rear Admiral George Wallace Melville, U. S. N., retired, died at his home here yesterday of paralysis. He was national commander of the Loyal Legion and was a noted authority on arctic exploration, as well as on engineering and naval affairs.

Rear Admiral Melville, who was placed on the retired list Jan. 10, 1903, was 72 years old. For sixteen years he was chief of the bureau of steam engineering in the navy department. He was appointed an assistant engineer in the navy in 1861, and was a member of both the Jeannette and the Greely relief expeditions to the arctic circle.

Among the college which conferred honorary degrees upon him in recognition of his scientific work were the University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Columbia, Georgetown and Stevens Institute.

He was a past president of both the American Academy of Mechanical Engineers and the American Society of Naval Engineers.

At the time of his death he was president of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. Interment will be made in Laurel Hill cemetery, this city, Wednesday.

DIABETES

It was not easy for us to believe that Diabetes is curable, but the first case we came in personal touch with was astonishingly convincing.

We were considering the purchase of Fulton's Compound and were looking for cases to try them on. One of our number knew Charles A. Newton, the Yardmaster of the S. P. R. R. Co., at Sacramento—a very worthy man. He also knew that Newton had diabetes and was in a hospital in the Capital City, and that his recovery seemed impossible when he last heard from him. A letter was written to Newton that Fulton claimed his Diabetes Compound cured Diabetes and that we wanted to know from OUR friends if this was so, and that if he (Newton) would take it that we would send him a supply of it. Newton replied to the effect that some four or five months before we wrote him he had heard about the compound, had taken it, that the sugar was nearly out and he was almost well. His complete recovery followed, and he told an S. P. Engineer who had Diabetes and he recovered.

The best results are had in cases of middle age and over.

Fulton's Diabetes Compound can be had at the D. & N. Pharmacy, 233 Broadway, New York, or write John J. Fulton Co., San Francisco. We desire patients to write us not improving by the third week.

MEMPHIS IS PROUD OF HER RECORD

Sends Out Pamphlets Extolling Commission Government.

HOW IT HAS WORKED

Memphis, Tenn., March 7.—"One Year and Eight Months Under Commission Government" is an interesting exhibit of municipal progress that is being distributed in pamphlet form by Memphis. It succinctly covers the cost of installing the new idea in city government and the improvements and advancements it has wrought.

The business men, who like to see their municipality run as they run their various enterprises, are satisfied fully with the experiment. The only disgruntled ones appear to be the professional politicians who formerly made a living out of their vocation. They continue loudly to proclaim tersely that commission government is "no good."

Memphis is enjoying its greatest era of improvement with the minimum of taxes. The tax rate last year was $1.59, the smallest ever known in the city.

City Makes a Saving.

Many ways of saving money have been introduced, one of them being the system of making the banks pay interest on the balances carried by the city. In former years the banks used the city funds without paying anything. If the city had an overdraft in the end of the year, as it usually had, the bank charged a per cent. interest.

The commission advertised for bids, and by this means made an arrangement to collect 3 1/2 per cent. interest on deposits and to pay but 4 per cent. on overdrafts. This application of ordinary common-sense to the city finance made a saving last year of about $14,000.

During 1910 the city collected the full amount of its budget allowance for the first time in the history of Memphis, and also collected $1,774 of back taxes supposed to be uncollectable. In other years there had been a deficiency of about $20,000 to $25,000 because certain property owners were too intimately received in one day recently from peremptory. It is said, with city politics to be forced to pay taxes. The present commission administration hired an attorney, whose sole duty it was to insist on all taxes being paid. This plan produced about $25,000 more than usual.

County and City Conflict.

In every department of the city striking improvements have been made under the new government. Streets have been made and public buildings have additions under construction. The police and fire departments have been brought to a high state of efficiency and the financial affairs of the city are run just the same as a big commercial concern handles its affairs.

From those who lived by politics in the old days and carefully nursed their political pulls as a valuable asset, there has gone up a long and plaintive wail since the old regime passed and the commission took charge.

Two hours after the commissioners were elected a contest suit was filed and since then the "down and out old guard"—as the former "crowd" is called—rushes into court whenever there seems a chance to embarrass the commission by the injunction route.

Memphis is in Shelby county, and as is often the case where a county has a large city within its borders, there is conflict between the city and the county authorities.

The turnpikes of the county are in charge of the county court, composed of three judges. The city of Memphis pays 88 per cent. of the total taxes raised by Shelby county, and the commissioners who run the city are insisting that the county officials shall run the county along modern lines.

County authorities, resenting this interference from the city commission, are lined up with the politicians of other days in fighting the commission, but the new organization seems to get fat on fights and always to be ready for a scrimmage.

The commission is composed of Mayor Edward H. Crump, 36 years old, ex-devil in a Mississippi country newspaper office; P. Harry Kelly, lawyer, 31 years old and commissioner of fire and police; George C. Love, 66 years old, retired dealer in pipe staves, commissioner of streets, bridges and sewers; Ernest L. Parham, ex-newsboy, 39 years old, commissioner of accounts, finances and revenues; and Thomas Dies, 50 years old, grocerman, commissioner of public utilities, grounds and buildings.

Department Improved.

The work of P. Harry Kelly as commissioner of fire and police, is most often commented on locally, and he has succeeded in making vast improvements in both departments.

It took the members of the police force some time to understand that he meant just what he said when he told them to attend to business and keep out of politics. During a recent campaign he was making a speech and discovered that a policeman was leading the applause. He dismissed the officer for taking too much interest in politics, and then it began to dawn on the force that P. Harry meant exactly what he had said.

John D. Friske and Miss Lena Oster, of Eureka, were married at the Zion Lutheran parsonage yesterday afternoon after an exciting ride of eighty-five miles, city of which were covered in a cutter. Objections were made to the marriage by some of Miss Oster's relatives, so the couple determined to outwit them. Prepared with a license issued more than a week ago, Mr. Friske went to Eureka to get his bride. The matter had been arranged in advance for the hurried flight and the couple made their escape in record time—Bismarck (N. D.) Tribune.

Ho wls Your Weight?

While it is true that too much weight is not to be desired yet the fact remains that many men and women are thin to the point of danger. This danger lies in their having no reserve force or nerve power to combat deadly diseases. A little extra flesh is needed by all to feel well and to look well, and this can be gained by increasing the white and red corpuscles of the blood, by the administration of a grain hypo-phosphate tablet, and this is always followed by an increase of weight, obtain in sealed packages, and take for a period of several months according to directions with package.

The flavor is stirring the crispness enduring. When Queen Bees are served I'm never demurring.

In the manufacture of these crackers, taste is not the primary consideration. But if it were, we could make them no better than we do now. For what could taste better than the right ingredients, blended in the proper proportions and according to Nature's requirements of the human body?

It has been definitely determined that the prevalence of floods in the vicinity of the Manti national forest of Utah was due entirely to organizing. Prior to 1878 floods in that section were unknown, but about that time the ranges on the heads of the streams were heavily stocked with sheep and cattle, however, and freshets began to occur with each heavy rain during the summer months, and these have steadily increased in volume and destructiveness. The whole character of the country was completely changed and the devastation so great that the residents in alarm began to investigate, and secured the assistance of the government and the proper regulation of the grazing has restored the country to its old-time glory.

Vapor Treatment For Catarrh

The HYOMEI vapor treatment is especially recommended in stubborn cases of chronic catarrh of long standing, but remember that the inhaler should be used daily as usual.

This treatment only takes a few minutes before going to bed. Pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a kitchen bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that arises.

You will be surprised at the results of this treatment; it makes the head feel fine and clear; you will sleep better, and that stuffed up feeling will gradually disappear.

This method is also used to break up the worst cold in the head over night.

A bottle of HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mei) costs 50 cents at Meyer Bros. Co. and druggists everywhere. Complete outfit which includes the little pocket inhaler, $1.00.

No stomach dosing; just breathe HYOMEI and end catarrh and all diseases of the breathing organs.

GOING AFTER VOTES IN IOWA

Some New Wrinkles Are in Use in Strenuous
Campaign.

OLD METHODS GONE

Des Moines, Iowa, March 18.—Iowa voters are in the midst of the most remarkable political campaign ever pulled off in the middle west. Here are four candidates who are attracting unusual attention because of unique methods of going after votes:

Lafayette Young, Des Moines, for United States senator.

Prof. Perry G. Holden for governor.

John MacVicar for re-election as commissioner.

Charles Schramm, for re-election as superintendent of accounts and finances in Des Moines.

When Colonel Young arises to address a meeting he first calls upon his professional songster, Prof. Harry Morrison.

"Let us begin our meeting by singing 'America,'" he announces.

Thereupon Prof. Morrison opens wide his throat and the rich, mellow baritone notes roll out. Prof. Morrison next sings "The Star-Spangled Banner," and the meeting is on. Young does not talk politics; he avoids it. He talks about Iowa and on early days on Hickory ridge, and encourages the people to boost their state.

Then Prof. Morrison sings "Annie Laurie" or "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and the meeting is over.

This sort of campaigning is making a hit. Col. Young and his fellow-singer have appeared before 100 audiences, and are still going.

Prof. Holden, candidate for governor, is a seed corn expert. For years he has traveled over the state showing farmers how to increase production by testing their seed corn. It was his suggestion that the railroads run seed corn special trains over the state and he always went along. Now he is running for governor on a seed corn platform. "A Greater Iowa" is his slogan. Opposed to him are Lieutenant Governor Clarke, insurgent and right-hand man of Senator A. B. Cummins, and State Senator A. V. Proudfoot, standpatler from Standpatville. Every time Prof. Holden makes a speech he springs his seed corn, tester. He issues advance invitations for the farmers to bring him their seed corn to be tested free of charge. Of course, he is making a hit with the farmers.

Commissioner MacVicar is cutting a swath with his stereopticon and moving picture machine. He begins with a moving picture journey over the streets of Des Moines and up and down the alleys to show how the city has improved since it adopted the commission form of government. He shows streets and alleys as they were four or five years ago and as they are now. Then he tells what he himself has accomplished as superintendent of streets and, since last fall, superintendent of police.

One of his stereopticon pictures is that of Harris Levich, a professional bondsman.

"This," he says, "is Harry Levich, a professional bond shark, who used to work in police courts and who doesn't do that sort of thing any more since I assumed charge of the police department."

Levich applied for a court injunction to prevent it, and one night he broke up a political meeting. When MacVicar projected the picture on the canvass Levich jumped up on the platform and shouted:

"Yes, and here is the original. And if you don't cut this out I'll break your machine and beat your wife off."

The crowd yelled, "Give him the hook!" "Put him out!" "Close his clap-net!" Levich made a jump at the stereopticon, but MacVicar got to it first. There was a free fight and in the end the meeting was called off. But that hasn't happened since, and MacVicar is still using the picture.

A rival candidate asserted that MacVicar is not a taxpayer. The next night MacVicar flashed on the screen a picture of one of his tax receipts showing that he had paid $1,000 taxes the preceding year.

Another rival charged that he had ruined a street by cutting it down. "The Calceola can't!" he jeeringly called it.

The next night MacVicar threw a picture of a sixteen-story building which is to be built on the "cut" just because the street was cut down.

When he started out MacVicar threw pictures of Senator Cummins and Col. Roosevelt on the screen, but forgot Taft. A newspaper criticized him, and since then he has been showing pictures of Taft, Woodrow Wilson, Charles Clark and every other presidential possibility.

Commissioner Schramm is conducting a photograph campaign. He has had a photograph record taken of one of his speeches. If he finds that he will not be able to speak at a meeting for which he is booked, one of his lieutenants takes the photograph to the meeting place and the speech is ground off just the same.

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all dealers.

WHAT'S OURS
BY WINONA GODFREY

"We are happy." There was a thrill in Christabel's voice. "But—it is not always safe to draw parallels. Now with us, Mr. Burke's money was his own, he had no family; he cared nothing for society, and neither did I. Consequently we have gone our own gait. We have been wholly independent. Could it be so with you?"

Sydney shook her head doubtfully. "I'm afraid, from what he said that Mr. Tremper must be somewhat dependent on his father."

Sydney blushed. "I didn't mean to—but—it doesn't matter."

Christabel nodded her head slowly. "Ah, I see."

"You know the Tremper?"

"Not personally. I know something about them—though, from hearsay. They're a kind of family, I think."

Christabel continued thoughtfully: "much more common in the East than out West here. Very aristocratic, as you said—not to say snobbish." She made a wry little face. "It seems to me one of the daughters married an Englishman with a title of some sort."

Sydney caught a half-sob in his throat. From the moment when she beheld his mother, the guilt between Tremper and herself had seemed to deepen until it was becoming an abyss in width, a chasm in width—wholly impassable.

But turning an abstract lover into definite Tremper, served to poison Christabel's view of the matter. "Why does Mr. Tremper think about this?"

Sydney admitted that she had recognized it, but she had not discussed it with him. Christabel broke in with sudden conviction.

"Believe me, it all depends on what he is. What is best for you to do depends on him."

Sydney closed her eyes, her quivered. "I think—I hope he does."

"Then," cried Christabel, "leave decision to him. You are willing to bear what comes. I know. You are only thinking of him now. Let him decide for himself. Oh, my dear, it seems to me we let such trivial things stand in the way of our lives and happiness! Why, when I was working in the store as you are now, I was

Sydney understood. Yes, it was better to let people decide things for their own hearts. Instead of trying to make them do what maybe only he was right to you. When she rose Christabel took both her hands.

"You'll let me know, won't you, if it all comes out? And oh, I hope it comes out right!" And Mrs. Bess kissed the little shop-girl, and said that she was surely her sister's skin.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. HENEBERRY

Impressive Funeral Services are Held at Peoria.

SKETCH OF HER LIFE

(Peoria, Ill., Star.)
The Cathedral of St. Mary was thronged Friday morning, when the hosts of friends of Mrs. Mary Daniels Henneberry paid their last sad tribute. Rev. Father John M. Quinn, a close friend of the Henneberry family, and former rector of St. John's church of this city, but now of Ottawa, delivered a beautiful and touching funeral sermon over the remains. He eulogized her life as one full of beauty, of good, and of generously exercised charity, and told how she had been his guiding star in the founding of a new parish in the south end of the city years ago. The beautiful solemnities of the funeral service, as prescribed in the ritual of the Roman Catholic church, were observed, and the solemn requiem high mass was celebrated by the Brothers of St. Mary. In the celebration of the mass, Rev. J. H. Shannon, rector of St. Mary's Cathedral, and Rev. Father Madden, rector of St. John's church, officiated, while Rev. Father Shannon, of St. Bernard's church, acted as sub-deacon.

Following the saying of mass, Father Quinn delivered his eulogy and sermon, and the services were ended in a chanted prayer. The interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Sketch of Her Life.
At the time her noble Christian life went out she was surrounded by all her surviving children. Twelve children were born to her, and those who survive are Richard J. Henneberry, Mrs. E. J. Cushman, Mrs. S. H. Cummings and Miss Lucy Henneberry, of Peoria; Mrs. R. DeWald and Mrs. Charles Muehl, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and Mrs. E. T. Muir, of Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Stacia Bergan, Nicholas Henneberry and three who passed away in infancy preceded her in death. She also leaves thirteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild, and also one brother, Mr. John Daniels, of San Antonio, Texas.

Mrs. Henneberry was a woman of strong Christian character, charitable and kind to all. Her charity extended to all regardless of creed and none will ever know how much happiness was brought into many a home and many a heart through her noble and Christian charity. Her mode of giving and doing was similar to her mode of life, quiet and unpretentious. She was a noble wife and mother, having devoted her whole life and strength to her family and her home. Her great love for Christian education is well known and demonstrated by the beautiful memorial school which she gave as a monument to her late husband, Matthew Henneberry. Mrs. Henneberry was not only a Catholic in religious profession, but her whole life embodied all the teachings of that holy religion, and of her it can be said in truth that her life's work is done and that she has left a most beautiful example of life and charity as an inheritance to her children.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of coughs, colds and croup. It can be depended upon. Try it. Sold by all dealers.

MEDICAL MEN APPROVE THIS PRESCRIPTION

Free from Drugs and Opium
Cures a Cold Overnight

The opposition of the medical profession to "patent medicines" is based upon considerations of simple honesty and morality. A physician's prescription is a matter of record. It can be referred to at any time, and its ingredients can be known to the patient. But the patent medicine manufacturer keeps his formula secret, and too often makes it a means of distributing dangerous opiates and drugs.

Every doctor knows the curative properties of vitamin oil of pine. Most of them use it in their daily practice. One of the most reliable and quick-acting prescriptions for the cure of colds, sore throat, inflammation of the mucous membrane, bronchitis, catarrh and rheumatism due to excess of uric acid, is made by taking two ounces of glycerine with eight ounces pure vitamin oil and a half ounce virgin oil of pine. A teaspoonful every four hours will cure any cold that is curable.

Your doctor can furnish these ingredients at small cost and you can mix them at home. Vitamin oil of pine should always be secured in the original half-ounce vial bearing the label of the Leach Chemical Company, of Cincinnati, Ohio, as this is the only form in which the strongest and purest vitamin can be certain of its purity and freshness.

Over twenty million dollars' worth of automobiles were exported from the United States in the calendar year 1911, or twenty times as much as a decade ago.

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

FIGHTS AGAINST DEATH IN CHAIR

Guards Are Compelled to Shove Di Pasquale from His Room.

HAD TRIED HANGING

Auburn, N. Y., March 18.—Domenico Di Pasquale died in the electric chair today exactly one year after his conviction. To the last he fought against death in the chair and a statement issued by Deputy Warden Tupper after the execution told of Di Pasquale's effort to hang himself in his cell early Friday.

He was discovered, cut down and revived and was closely guarded until this morning. When the final summons came he at first refused to leave the condemned room but when shoved by two guards stepped into the chamber and walked to the chair alone. He would have spoken but the application of the death mask silenced him. Two contacts were necessary to carry out the mandate of the law.

Salvatore Di Pasquale the younger brother of the murderer whose vain attempt to save Domenico by prepared testimony brought him to Auburn prison, was in his cell near by and knelt in prayer during the early morning hours. Di Pasquale's body was claimed by his wife.

Domenico Di Pasquale killed Colosoro Polizzi with a pistol shot during a quarrel at a wedding celebration in Rochester on Nov. 13, 1910.

At the trial Salvatore Di Pasquale a younger brother of the accused, took the witness stand and declared that it was he who fired the fatal shot.

SMASH FACES OF JAGGED FATHERS

Judge Mungovan Says Sons Ought to Protect Mothers That Way.

M'DEVITT IS WARNED

"Till tell you what sons ought to do when drunken fathers abuse their mothers," said Judge Mungovan in the city court today. "They ought to smash their faces good and hard."

This talk was delivered to William McDevitt, a laborer who got drunk Saturday night and became so abusive to his wife that a son had to call in the police. He was let go with a warning not to repeat the offense.

McDevitt's excuse was that he could not be master in his own house because his son "bassed" him and that he was not very drunk when the trouble occurred.

One Woman Not There.
A woman caught in a raid last night at 117 Brackenridge St. and who gave the name of Laura Smith did not appear in court when her case was called and a fine of $10 and costs was paid from money put up as her bond.

Rose Arlie, who conducts the house, and John Geary and George Seaton were each fined $10 and costs and went to jail. The house is the same, in which Mrs. Charles Schwartz took a room a short time before she was shot by Ralph Fellabaum. Detectives Pappert and Ward Hall raided the house when they found it needed it. They had gone there with no idea of arresting the inmates and were looking for a witness. Charges of specific immorality were placed against the quartet.

The Other Cases.
Beane Crawford and Joseph Sullivan, both old timers, drew $10 and costs each for drunkenness. James Johnson was fined $1 and costs and Frank Simpson, a vag, was allowed to go.

WILL HEAR ALL WARD.
If the plans of President Schroeder are carried out the city council will hold separate meetings for the citizens of each ward in the city to get at the sentiment on the proposed $200,000 bond issue.

As many meetings as there are wards will be held and careful consideration given before the matter is finally passed upon.

You Have Noticed One Thing About Us

You are sure this store doesn't treat you like a bargain hunter. Our argument is not entirely directed to your low price sense. We figure that there are enough people in Fort Wayne and the vicinity thereof who measure the price they pay by what they get for it, which should be sufficient to support a store that makes it a point of putting extra quality into the values offered. That's what really constitutes a bargain and to make everything in this big store a big value for the price.

Our value-for-price idea is carried out in that we absolutely guarantee and will replace any article purchased from us which is of a standard make.

HAVE CONSTITUTION

The local committee appointed some time ago to organize a local branch of the Indiana Manufacturers' and Shippers' association, has completed a constitution, copies of which have been forwarded to the executive committee of the state association and to the Fort Wayne Commercial club. J. D. Franko, president of the Perfection Biscuit company, is chairman of the committee, members of which are C. S. Bash, H. A. Perfection, H. J. Boverfud, A. W. Heit, W. C. Rastetter and G. H. Van Arman.

As soon as the constitution is approved by the executive board of the state organization a meeting of all the manufacturers and shippers of the Twelfth district will be held in Fort Wayne, at which time a local organization will be perfected. The organization will comprise the shipping end of the local Commercial club, of which it is a part, and a committee on commerce will be appointed to look after the interests of the branch. Any firm joining the local organization, also becomes a member of the state association.

Never before have the shipping interests of the Twelfth district been so thoroughly and completely organized. There are at present seventy members representing Fort Wayne, and by the first of next month it is hoped to increase the local membership to one hundred. Prior to this time there was no centralization in Indiana, especially this part of the state and that fact was responsible for the high freight rates throughout the state.

Clifford S. Lee, assistant secretary and field agent for the state association will remain in Fort Wayne until April 1 and will assist the local committee in completing a Fort Wayne organization.

PROF. BARNARD HITS TRADITION

Calls Baker's Bread Better Than Kind "Mother Used to Make."

IN PURE FOOD TALK

Indianapolis, Ind., March 19.—Preference for the kind of bread that "mother used to make" was held to be based on a worn-out idea by H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, when he addressed the City League at the Board of Trade building yesterday afternoon. The food and drug specialist declared that baker's bread is purer and more wholesome than one-half of that baked by housewives. A slight gasp of astonishment was evident when Mr. Barnard made this statement, and fearing that he might have injured the feelings of the women who consider themselves expert cooks, he explained that bakery bread is better than that made at home only because modern inventions have improved the bakery process.

The speaker admitted that in investigations of Indiana bakeries he has been forced to take his hat off to the men who operate the bread-baking establishments. Baker's bread, he asserted, is the purest food product in existence when it first comes from the ovens. He warned, however, against the handling of bread by salesmen, and permitting its exposure to dirt-laden air.

Dirty milk also was scored by the speaker as a menace to health. He recommended that all housewives examine milk as it is delivered and demand better conditions if dirty milk is offered by dealers.

"All women should become pure food inspectors," said Mr. Barnard. "They should consider themselves as wearing the tin badge of authority, and when they see that pure food laws are being violated they should demand that their dealers conform to the provisions set forth in the statutes."

Urges Personal Effort.
"It is better for the housewife to go to the store to do her buying, for then she can see the conditions under which her supplies are being kept. Women are very careful with foodstuffs after they have arrived at their homes, but they do not seem to care much about the way food is treated while in the grocery store or meat market."

"I believe that Indiana has achieved a national reputation for the manner in which foodstuffs are handled in grocery stores. Very few foodstuffs are displayed on the street and in the open air, and in this respect I believe that Indianapolis is one of the best cities in the country. It is impossible for the pure food men to do all of the work necessary in this movement, and for that reason every housewife should consider herself a pure food inspector and report all cases of neglect or law violation that comes to her attention."

Dr. Hannah M. Graham, chairman of the home buying department of the league, announced that, beginning with the summer months, lectures will be given in all parts of the city to instruct persons how to care for patients suffering from summer ailments. Dr. Jane Ketchum, chairman of the physical welfare department, said that since the last meeting of the league seven lectures have been given in the city under her direction.

Regret was expressed by several members of the league that the Woman's Department club had been organized to undertake some of the work that has been inaugurated and conducted by the Civic league during the last year. They said that duplication of efforts to improve civic conditions may tend to retard progress.

TEMPLE THEATER.

All round amusement and classy entertainment is to be found at the Temple theater this week and there's never a really slow moment. The headliner is Ed Reynard, with his wonderful ventriloquism. The patrons of the Temple vaudeville have seen some clever masters of this art, but no one who presents anything like the variety of Mr. Reynard. The act is a whole show in itself with over a dozen characters, besides Seth Dewberry, the automaton, who looks alive in the hands of Mr. Reynard. It is one of the best acts of the season. The program includes some exceedingly original numbers like John A. West, the musical brownie, who needs to do little, but is seen, but who gets off some very good musical selections between the times he is doing the ridiculous. His brownie make-up is just what it is named. And his grand opera wail brings a sympathetic howl of laughter from the audience. The Zeredikas have a startling number of things in balancing tricks and evidently pleased. Fannie Rice is just as advertised, "jolly" and clever in her imitations. They are a novelty and really remarkable. The audience certainly appreciates her efforts. Her mimicry is excellent. Two singers with sweet and well trained voices, who sing some pretty songs and a melody that is new and novel are Spencer Kelly and Marion Wilder. They met with a welcome that must have done them good for the audience was insistent in demands. Paul Barnes is a monologist of high class. He sings very well and has a line of talk that has some intelligence. His umbrella story is new, which helps the act to class at the top. The bicycle riders, Fred and Albert Ferrell, bring down the curtain on a lot of fun and some hair-raising riding. Their skill is mixed with comedy and the audience can never guess what is coming next. The motion pictures and the work of Mr. Diecy and his men in the orchestra are up to the high grade they maintain in their work and as usual there is always someone commenting in high praise on the orchestra.
